Reveal Taylor Issued Orders For Army Alert

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor was identified by Secretary of the Army Brucker today as the man who sent out the quickly rescinded order for special training of troops to handle civil disturbances of the Little Rock type.

Romulo, Six Americans In Fatal Crash

MANILA, Oct. 11 (UP)—A plane carrying six persons, including the war hero son of the Philippine ambassador to the United States, exploded in the air and crashed tonight, killing all aboard.

The other five victims were said to be Americans.

The private plane carrying Carlos P. Romulo Jr., 31, and his party from Mindanao to Luzon blew up over Bulog village and hit a tree in rugged Batangas province at 7:30 p.m., 4:30 p.m. (CST).

U.S. Executives
Besides Romulo, the victims were identified as:

Paul (Pappy) Gunn, owner and pilot of the plane and owner and general manager of the Philippine Air Development Co.

Alan O. Gorman, a New York lawyer and president of the Findlay Miller Timber Co.

Ralph L. Stover, vice president of the timber company.

Zane Duncan, an executive of the United States Plywood Co.

Harold Broad, president of the plywood company.

A Philippine air force ambulance carried the bodies of the victims, charred beyond recognition, to Nichols Air Base outside Manila from San Fernando Air Base, at Lipa City.

Asiatic Flu
Aims Bigger
Punch Here

Asian Flu shows signs of aiming an even bigger punch at Twin Cities schools as absenteeism, although showing signs of decreasing at mid-week, showed a general uptrend yesterday.

Quachita Parish High School reached a new high in absenteeism since the outbreak with 240 students missing.

The disease also has struck a blow at class attendance at Northeast State College. A football game scheduled for tonight between Northeast and Southern State College of Magnolia Ark., has been called off with 20 or more Northeast players ill.

Mrs. Bernice Jones, college health nurse, said between 20 and 30 students have been reporting to the infirmary daily this week. She said there were only three patients at the infirmary last night and said she thinks illnesses are decreasing.

Increase Noted
North Monroe Junior High absences jumped to 118, 24 more than Thursday's total. Previous high total for the week was 100 on Wednesday.

West Monroe High School, hardest hit of Twin Cities schools, with 270 students out yesterday, showed much improvement over Tuesday's total of 440 absentees.

South Monroe Junior High had 87 students out, compared with Thursday's total of 75. Quachita Parish Grammar School reported about 30 out yesterday, compared with the week's high at mid-week 69.

Needle Found In Heart Of Woman

DETROIT, Oct. 11 (AP)—Mrs. Henry R. Mann, 44, of nearby St. Clair Shores, developed a bad cough three weeks ago.

X-ray examination disclosed a needle in her heart. It was pulsating with every heart beat with the point sticking into the right lung. The stabbing caused her to cough blood.

Taylor, Army chief of staff, sent out the directive Sept. 25.

That was one day after federal troops had moved into Little Rock to enforce a federal court order for racial integration in the city's Central High School.

Brucker said it called for four divisions of the regular Army to form special task forces of 1,000 to 1,200 men. Three of the divisions were located in the South. The order mentioned the possibility of "situations similar to that now current in Little Rock."

Killed By Brucker
The directive was personally killed by Brucker Sept. 26, within hours after it became publicly known. Amid much confusion, the Army clamped on a tight lid of secrecy, hoping thus to avoid fanning the controversy over use of troops to enforce integration.

Until today, Brucker had refused to say who issued the order or what was in it. His release of the order came in a letter to Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Russell had asked for a copy of the document, saying: "I want to find out if the Army has formulated plans for the occupation of the entire South."

Other members of Congress from the South had demanded full information and Brucker said copies of his letter to Russell also would go to them.

Byrd Was One
Among those who filed vigorous demands was Sen. Byrd (D-Va.), a member of Russell's committee. Byrd said a week ago that Brucker had rejected his request for information.

At that time, Brucker wrote Byrd that release of the requested document was governed by President Eisenhower's order of May 17, 1954 in the Army-McCarthy hearings. In that order, the President forbade disclosures to Congress of internal communications within the executive department.

Brucker wrote Russell that he had now decided to release the details. "Since it would appear that they are no longer likely to exacerbate the current situation in Little Rock."

Russell had asked for "a copy of the directive alerting Army units throughout the South for possible use in other school integration cases."

Brucker replied that, "No alert directive, as that term is understood in military terminology, has been issued."

'Perfect Weather'
Looms In Forecast

Perfect weather should be in the offing for those planning to take in the last day of the Quachita Valley Fair, or attend a football game today.

Or at any rate perfect weather is forecast, with clear skies and continued comfortable temperatures expected.

Yesterday's high was 77, compared with Thursday's reading of 76, and the low yesterday was 54, with a minimum of 60 recorded Thursday.

12-YEAR REIGN ENDS
SAN MARINO, Oct. 11 (AP)—The 12-year reign of West Europe's only Communist government ended today.

The Red regime vacated the grey, stone government castle in this tiny republic peacefully, vowing that "Socialist ideas will triumph again."

Capt. Etore Sozzi, a 50-year-old Italian who is the chief of San Marino's regular police forces, assumed total power temporarily by agreement between the ousted Communists and a new Christian Democratic government which is to take over at midnight Sunday.

San Marino's 1,300 people were calm and apparently only mildly interested in the change of government.

Capt. Sozzi's job will be to maintain order and confiscate all weapons held by civilians. Both the Reds and their anti-Communist opponents dissolved the militias they set up in the past 11 years of civil strife, but Sozzi suspected some of the Communists hid weapons.

Sixty rifles and four heavy machine guns were turned in today to Sozzi's policemen. To bolster his precinct force of 100 men, 25 former members of the Italian police were due tomorrow.

The Communists, who were elected to office with Socialist help in San Marino's first election after World War II, tried unsuccessfully to remain in power after defections cost them their majority in the 60-member Parliament.

But the United States and the Christian Democratic government of surrounding Italy backed the provisional government established by the new majority in Parliament, made up of Christian Democrats and Independents.

AT LITTLE ROCK

Minor Incident Breaks Up Calm

LITTLE ROCK, Oct. 11 (UP)—A paratrooper with a belly club chased a tall, skinny boy out of Central High School today for singling out a Negro student and trailing him suspiciously close into the building.

As the eight Negroes—the ninth was sick today with flu—reached the three doors at the school's entrance, they split up. Seven went through one door and one went through another.

The white boy, in a black sports shirt and Ivy League cap, stepped out of a crowd of white students and walked in upon the lone Negro boy's heels. He turned and made a remark to the other white students.

Complaints Ignored
His disappearance through the door behind the Negro, but stayed in less than a minute. With a trooper behind him, he came rushing back out. He complained to a captain, but the captain walked off and left him.

Otherwise, the Negroes had no trouble. They entered their third week in Central High School in peace. Soberly, they proceeded to their classes, protected them on the way to school, on the way home and in side and outside the building.

No end to the crisis was in sight.

It's his (President's) responsibility," Gov. Orval E. Faubus said. "He got himself into this mess. Let him get himself out."

The President ordered 1,000 troops of the 101st Airborne Division into Little Rock and federalized the Arkansas National Guard on Sept. 21 to protect the Negroes.

Faubus Lounged About
Faubus, with a two-day growth of beard, lounged about in his bedroom in the gubernatorial mansion nursing a case of flu. He specified that it was not Asian flu.

He said he feels better but his doctor has advised him to stay at home through the weekend.

Faubus estimated "roughly" that it will cost the government $24 million—or more than $2.6 for each Negro—to protect the nine Negroes at Central for the rest of the school year.

Dionne Quint In Serious Condition

MONTREAL, Oct. 11 (AP)—Yvonne Dionne, of the quintuplet sisters in a serious condition here with flu and pulmonary complications, her doctor said tonight.

The condition of the 23-year-old nurse is serious but not desperate, said Dr. Reul Gillins. Only time would tell how long her recovery takes, he added.

Her sister Annette was married here today, first Quint to wed, but Yvonne missed the ceremony. She was brought by ambulance from Shawinigan Falls, Que., earlier this week and was visiting friends when complications developed.

Dr. Gelinas made his statement after he had been asked to comment on a report from a source close to the Dionne family that Yvonne was suffering from pneumonia and pleurisy.

23 Nations Ask Attempt To Cut Arms

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 11 (AP)—The United States and 22 other nations called on the U.N. today to make another try at a disarmament agreement that would control such space travelers as the Russian earth satellite.

The 23 nations presented a formal resolution asking the United Nations to reconvene the deadlocked five-nation subcommittee in principle the Western proposals advanced in London last August and rejected by the Russians.

There was no mention of Indian or Japanese suggestions for breaking the East-West deadlock, or any Soviet proposals. The 23 nations made plain they were supporting in principle the Western proposals advanced in London last August and rejected by the Russians.

Casus Shadow
But it was clear that the Soviet satellite now circling the earth had cast its shadow on the lengthy consultations that produced the resolution.

One of the main points called for a "joint study of an inspection system designed to ensure that sending of objects through outer space will be exclusively for peaceful and scientific purposes."

The United States has suggested the study of control of outer space objects be taken up immediately without waiting for agreement on other phases of initial steps toward disarmament.

This was not mentioned in the resolution, and there were indications some of the sponsoring nations were approaching this suggestion with caution.

Informed sources said Britain, Canada and France were still studying the U.S. suggestion. Those four nations and the Soviet Union make up the Disarmament subcommittee.

New Techniques
Britain's position is that science is just arriving at new techniques and discoveries regarding rockets and artificial moons, and because the subject is so technical no one can be sure what action can be taken to control them.

The British believe that once space objects are developed for military use there will be no chance of putting them under control.

The 23-nation resolution will be debated at length in the U.N. General Assembly Political Committee, which must approve before it.

Television For Blind Expected
In Early Future

LANSING, Oct. 11 (AP)—Television for the blind is coming in the future, a Grand Rapids scientist predicts.

Dr. R. T. Lustig, past president of the Michigan Society of Otolaryngic Physicians and a member of the State Board of Otolaryngic Examiners, made the prediction yesterday before a Lansing civic club. Dr. Lustig also is a scientific consultant to the U.S. Intelligence Service.

Research is now under way that will lead to television picture transmission directly to the brain, Dr. Lustig said.

"This isn't science fiction, it is on its way," he said. "It is merely a matter of hanging the frequency of the TV beam to the point of resonance in the brain. The eye only transmits the picture, but the brain does the actual seeing."

He predicted television for the blind would come "in your time and mine."

Children's Day Set As Climax To Fair

Climaxing the Quachita Valley Fair in West Monroe today will be the free admission of all children.

Prices of most rides will be reduced for this special event for children, according to John Birdson, secretary-manager.

Tonight at 11 o'clock will officially mark the end of the 1957 version of the fair, now in its 25th year. Exhibits, shows and rides have highlighted the production, termed by many as the best yet in the lengthy series.

INJUNCTION ASKED

Attempt To Bar Hoffa Underway

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—A group of New York Teamsters members today asked for a federal court order barring James B. Hoffa from taking over the presidency of the giant, scandal-ridden labor union.

Attorneys for the group conferred twice in chambers during the day with U.S. Dist. Judge F. Dickinson Letts on the plea, but the court put off a ruling until Monday.

"I won't have anything to say until then," Judge Letts told reporters.

Revision Asked
It was indicated that the judge asked the attorneys to revise the form of a proposed temporary restraining order they had prepared for his signature. There was no indication one way or another how the court will rule.

The attorneys—from the Washington and New York law firm of Dugg, Kaplan & Schmidt—said they also will go into the federal appeals court Monday morning to have the Teamsters Union cited for contempt of court.

Judge Letts two weeks ago issued a preliminary injunction against holding the Teamsters convention. The appeals court set this aside, but with the warning that the union should not go ahead.

U.S. BELIEVES

Second Satellite Launching Seen

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—Sputnik may have company very soon.

A State Department spokesman said today the department wouldn't be surprised if the Russians launched another earth satellite at any time.

Jes' Ramblin'
Press officer Jameson Parker declined to elaborate on his statement elicited at a news conference, other than to say he was not speaking hypothetically. This suggests his statement might be based on secret intelligence.

There has been speculation that the Russians would choose Nov. 7, the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution, to put a second satellite in orbit. Parker's comment was taken to mean the firing could come sooner.

American In March
The first American satellite is scheduled to go up next March, after some test firings in December.

Russia's baby moon was a week old today.

New calculations at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology indicated the satellite was being outdistanced in its race around the earth by the third stage of the rocket which launched it.

This rocket section, also in orbit, was estimated to be circling the earth once every 96.03 minutes.

Plans
The Monroe Civic Club, meeting Thursday nights in Hotel Frances, is making plans for a greatly enlarged membership and for conducting its of main project, the sale of fruit cake for the holidays. This has become a well established custom with the club.

Thursday night's meeting, one in which Civilian W. J. George was named program chairman, secured as speaker Irene Reid who told of details in the field of real estate. She said that the press is the greatest aid in this line and without this support real estate would be a dead end.

Woman Executed
For Murdering 6

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 11 (AP)—Mrs. Martin was strapped into the chair at 12:07 a.m. and was pronounced dead at 12:16 a.m. A handwritten note was discovered in her Bible yesterday by prison officials. Dated Oct. 14, 1956, it said:

"At my death, whether it be a natural death or otherwise, I want my body to be given to some scientific institution to be used as they see fit, but especially to see if anyone can find out why I committed the crimes I have committed."

"I can't understand it, for I had no reason whatsoever. There is definitely something wrong. Can't someone find it and save someone else the agony I have been through."

In the statements, signed after her arrest in 1956, the convicted murderer admitted giving rat poison to her second husband, George Garrett, in his whisky.

Clutching a small New Testament, Mrs. Martin was strapped into the chair at 12:07 a.m. and was pronounced dead at 12:16 a.m. A handwritten note was discovered in her Bible yesterday by prison officials. Dated Oct. 14, 1956, it said:

Zooms Far Beyond Its Range Goal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—The Air Force fired an apparently highly successful test of its Thor intermediate-range ballistic missile today from the Florida proving ground.

Official reports said the Thor took to the air cleanly, zoomed high above the stratosphere and landed several hundred miles beyond the "programmed" 1,500-mile range for intermediate missiles.

This suggested that the firing was intended to test range, without any effort to drop the missile on a specific target area far out in the Atlantic Ocean.

In Florida
The test at the Cape Canaveral Missile Center, came during a White House conference on the missile program. In this meeting were President Eisenhower, Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy, Dep. Defense Secretary Donald Quarles, and William Holladay, the Pentagon missile chief. The session was held prior to a regular Cabinet meeting, which Quarles also attended along with McElroy.

The White House meeting followed an announcement last night by the defense secretary that testing of both the Air Force Thor and the Army Jupiter missile will be continued into next year.

Former defense chief Charles Wilson had expected that a decision would be made by this time to choose either the Air Force or the Army missile or merge the two into a single project. But last night's announcement revealed that the Pentagon has decided that more tests, at an accelerated rate, are needed before a decision can be reached.

The Thor missile fired today is understood to have developed the full designed thrust of its rocket engine, burning for more than two minutes in the trajectory climb.

Texas Fugitive
Captured After
24-Hour Search

BUFFALO, Tex., Oct. 11 (UP)—A weary fugitive who eluded a large posse for 24 hours was captured today in thick brush country west of Buffalo.

The fugitive, Johnny Smith, 30, was wanted for his part in the critical wounding of Sheriff C. F. Stubblefield of Mills county. Stubblefield's condition was reported satisfactory today in a Corsicana hospital.

Stubblefield and his jailer, E.O. McLean, were transporting Smith, Harold Woolsey, 20, and Ray Larkin, 21, of Huntsville State Prison from Goldthwaite Thursday when Woolsey and Smith escaped.

Woolsey Re-Captured
Woolsey was captured within a few hours after the break. Larkin made no attempt to escape.

Mexico Police Chief Bill Parton made the actual capture today about noon of Smith who said he was weary and hungry, not having eaten for more than 24 hours. Bloodhounds aided in locating Smith as they did Woolsey.

The three prisoners were taken to Huntsville where they will be questioned. Charges are expected to be filed against Woolsey and Smith in connection with the near fatal shooting of Stubblefield.

Port Commission

In an effort to launch its program, the Greater Ouachita Port Commission officially requested the Louisiana Department of Public Works yesterday to conduct "feasibility" studies of the Ouachita river here.

The studies, according to chairman Curtis Smith, would determine the feasibility of developing the port of Monroe through the construction of facilities.

A resolution making the request "official" was passed unanimously by the Port Commission in an afternoon meeting held at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Members of the Port Commission conferred with Gov. Earl K. Long and Public Works Director Morris Wimberly several days ago and were instructed to file the resolution.

The resolution, in effect, left the door open for the Public Works to join the U. S. Corps of Engineers in conducting the survey, the resolution indicated.

Judge Letts two weeks ago issued a preliminary injunction against holding the Teamsters convention. The appeals court set this aside, but with the warning that the union should not go ahead with its convention if illegal delegations were seated.

The contempt proceedings would be on the argument that the convention was held with illegal delegates, in the face of the court warning.

By Wide Margin

Hoffa, 44-year-old Midwest Teamsters boss, was overwhelmingly elected president over two opposing candidates at last week's convention.

The protesting Teamster members, along with Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) of the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee, have charged many of the convention delegates were seated, despite their having been illegally chosen, to rig the election for Hoffa. McClellan said delegation selection in many cases was scandalous.

Dave Beck, the retiring union president said in New York today he was ready to resign and leave the president's chair open immediately.

For Murdering 6

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 11 (AP)—Leaving behind a note asking that her body be turned over to a medical institution, a middle-aged former waitress died in the Kilby Prison electric chair today.

The note asked if medical authorities could use her body to learn "why I committed the crimes I have committed."

Mrs. Rhonda Belle Martin, 50, was executed for the 1951 arsenic slaying of her fourth husband, Claude C. Martin. She had also signed statements admitting she poisoned two other husbands, her mother, and three daughters.

Ronald Martin, her fifth husband and C. C. Martin's 28-year-old son, was the only one who lived and the effects of the poison left him partially paralyzed.

An investigation into the chain of deaths of Mrs. Martin's relatives began when Ronald entered a hospital and doctors found traces of arsenic.

Clutching a small New Testament, Mrs. Martin was strapped into the chair at 12:07 a.m. and was pronounced dead at 12:16 a.m.

A handwritten note was discovered in her Bible yesterday by prison officials. Dated Oct. 14, 1956, it said:

"At my death, whether it be a natural death or otherwise, I want my body to be given to some scientific institution to be used as they see fit, but especially to see if someone can find out why I committed the crimes I have committed."

Zooms Far Beyond Its Range Goal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—The Air Force fired an apparently highly successful test of its Thor intermediate-range ballistic missile today from the Florida proving ground.

Unofficial reports said the Thor took to the air cleanly, zoomed high above the stratosphere and landed several hundred miles beyond the "programmed" 1,500-mile range for intermediate missiles.

This suggested that the firing was intended to test range, without any effort to drop the missile on a specific target area far out in the Atlantic Ocean.

In Florida

The test at the Cape Canaveral Missile Center, came during a White House conference on the missile program. In this meeting were President Eisenhower, Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy, Dep. Defense Secretary Donald Quarles, and William Holaday, the Pentagon missile chief. The session was held prior to a regular Cabinet meeting, which Quarles also attended along with McElroy.

The White House meeting followed an announcement last night by the defense secretary that testing of both the Air Force Thor and the Army Jupiter missile will be continued into next year.

Former defense chief Charles Wilson had expected that a decision would be made by this time to choose either the Air Force or the Army missile or merge the two into a single project. But last night's announcement revealed that the Pentagon has decided that more tests, at an accelerated rate, are needed before a decision can be reached.

The Thor missile fired today is understood to have developed the full designed thrust of its rocket engine, burning for more than two minutes in the trajectory climb.

Texas Fugitive
Captured After
24-Hour Search

BUFFALO, Tex., Oct. 11 (UP)—A weary fugitive who eluded a large posse for 24 hours was captured today in thick brush country west of Buffalo.

The fugitive, Johnny Smith, 30, was wanted for his part in the critical wounding of Sheriff C. F. Stubblefield of Mills county. Stubblefield's condition was reported satisfactory today in a Corsicana hospital.

Stubblefield and his jailer, E.O. McLean, were transporting Smith, Harold Woolsey, 30, and Ray Larkin, 21, of Huntsville State Prison from Goldthwaite Thursday when Woolsey and Smith escaped.

Woolsey Re-Captured

Woolsey was captured within a few hours after the break; Larkin made no attempt to escape.

Mexia Police Chief Bill Parton made the actual capture today about noon of Smith who said he was weary and hungry, not having eaten for more than 24 hours. Bloodhounds aided in locating Smith as they did Woolsey.

The three prisoners were taken to Huntsville where they will be questioned. Charges are expected to be filed against Woolsey and Smith in connection with the near fatal shooting of Stubblefield.

Message Revealed

Howard, said, "Taylor sent the following message to Gen. William C. Wadsworth, Jr., Army commander in chief, at Fort Monmouth, N.J., Oct. 10, 1957: 'Brucker told Russell, 'The units involved were designated primarily because of training considerations rather than because of their geographical location.'"

Incidentally, the units sent to Louisiana were from a division of the 101st Airborne, formerly led by Taylor, the 101st Airborne, Taylor, a native of Key West, Fla., is a 56-year-old West Point graduate with a special reputation for his insistence on strict discipline.

Brucker said he himself assumed complete responsibility, acting under orders from President Eisenhower, for sending a message to the units to be sent to Louisiana. He said Taylor was responsible for the conduct of the units and the conduct of troops.

Taylor, the secretary said, there was no question of identifying subordinates with the units sent to Louisiana.

Class Gains Inspiration In Art Work

By MARY ANNE CORPIN Staff Writer

"This was the first time that everyone in class handed in a picture without becoming discouraged," revealed Mrs. Neoma Williams, discussing the interest which her fifth grade class at Barkdull Faulk school showed in the study of unit on Louisiana.

Usually, they become unhappy if they see anyone else drawing a picture better than their's but they all drew the State flower, the magnolia, from memory, and handed it in," she explained.

Also fascinated by the state's bird, the Pelican, the youngsters designed a paper mache replica, with the advice of art teacher Thelma Borden.

"They took a paper sack, stuffed it, then smoothed it on with strips of paper mache. Tempera paints completed the effect," Mrs. Williams added.

Booklets Completed

Booklets completed by the boys and 15 girls in the class included studies on the 13 original parishes of 1803, the 64 parishes existing today, State Parks, the 13 states, including Louisiana, which were formed from the Louisiana Purchase, color drawings of the state flag and the seal.

Information on Louisiana products, city ports, rivers, Baton Rouge, and the capital building, which many of the children have visited, were all of interest.

Herman Driscoll, the school's music teacher, helped us with songs of Louisiana, and the children especially enjoyed "Mississippi Blues" and "Louisiana."

Before drawing the magnolia, the youngsters discussed what the flower looks like.

"Some remembered blossoms in yards, and they all recalled the magnolias in the tree next to the swimming pool. They had some difficulty in getting the right color of the leaves," Mrs. Williams revealed. "All were done in chalk on paper."

The "Picture of the Week" — done by one of the students — was voted on by the class as the best one, and was framed. Since it represents the work of the entire class, the young artist who drew it remains anonymous.

Convictions Of Kasper Upheld By Tenn. Court

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 11 (UP)— Circuit Court today upheld convictions against segregationist John Kasper. All stemmed from last month's school integration troubles here.

Special Judge Tyree Harris denied Kasper's appeal from $50 fines each for vagrancy and disorderly conduct. Harris cut a $50 fine for loitering to $10 and dismissed a fourth $50 fine levied on a disorderly conduct count.

City Atty. Robert Jennings said the New Jersey-born race agitator will be kept under police surveillance "as long as he is in Nashville to determine whether he finds an honest calling." As a convicted vagrant, Jennings added, "he is subject to arrest day by day."

Kasper's lawyer said the convictions will be appealed to either the State Court of Appeals or the Tennessee Supreme Court. He remains free under $500 bond.

During the lengthy hearing, Kasper was questioned closely as to where he gets his money.

"That's none of your business," he finally snapped.

The substance of his testimony was that he gets his money from collections at local meetings and contributions from all over the world.

Kasper denied he advocated violence to prevent the recent start of public school integration here and said he used to mix socially with Negroes as part of his studies in anthropology at Columbia University in New York.

Kasper's trial on a state charge of inciting to riot, also stemming from the school disturbances, has been set for Nov. 18.

Some Churches Denounced For Present Outlook

CLEVELAND, Oct. 11 (UP)— Some present day churches "are nothing more than mutual admiration societies" which "think well of themselves but are not interested in anyone else," a ranking lay church leader warned tonight.

The official, John Rogers, president of the 1957 Assembly of the International Convention of the Churches of Christ, prescribed a program of "information and urgency" for financially secure and spiritually disturbed modern churches.

Rogers, an attorney from Tulsa, Okla., told the first of more than 3,000 expected delegates in Public Hall that many of the present Christian churches do not grow because they "do not have any plan of program for growth," and because they are "not disturbed by or concerned with new ideas."

Rogers' keynote address for the six-day convention, said that "members of our church must see that there is no such thing as belonging simply to a local church."

He urged that churches make "during commitments" in working out their programs so as to create within the members a "challenge" and "a sense of urgency."

Rogers' keynote speech was taken as an endorsement of an important resolution which the delegates, from all parts of the nation and "abroad," will begin considering during business meetings Saturday.

The resolution, one of about 50 such matters awaiting a convention vote, is in commendation of the new United Church of Christ. The new church was formed here last June by the Congregational Christian and Evangelical and Reformed churches.

Smith explained that once the "feasibility" studies were made, the Port Commission in turn would have an estimate of the extent to which the port could be developed.

The construction of port facilities here would be financed by revenue bonds. The Port Commission, under an act of the legislature, has authority to issue revenue bonds.

The resolution said the Port Commission at present has no funds available to finance a study of the river. It said the development of the Monroe port would "materially benefit not only North Louisiana but the State of Louisiana as a whole."

Studies Needed

Smith said that before any steps can be taken toward raising funds for the development program, engineering and economic studies would be necessary.

Yesterday's meeting was only the second official session of the new y-organized Port Commission. Rep. Gilbert Faulk, who was present yesterday, was instrumental in passing the bill in the legislature.

The resolution read that the "Department of Public Works, State of Louisiana, be and is hereby formally requested at his expense and for and on behalf of this Commission to make or cause engineering and economic studies to be made to determine the feasibility of developing the Port of Greater Monroe through the acquisition and maintenance by this Commission of port facilities, said development to be financed by the issuance of revenue bonds payable out of the revenues derived from the operation of said properties and facilities."

Navy To Mothball 22 More Vessels

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (UP)— The Navy announced plans today to mothball an additional 22 ships in the first six months of next year in an effort to keep pace with the administration's stepped-up economy drive.

The ships include the Navy cruiser Albany, the submarine Balao, 10 destroyer-type vessels, and 10 smaller mine sweepers and auxiliary ships. The Navy said the active fleet would be cut to 900 vessels by next June 30.

Previously mothballed were the last of the Navy's active battle ships, the Iowa and the Wisconsin.

The 22 ships affected by the new order are in addition to 60 which the Navy started decommissioning Aug. 5 after former defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson ordered a 100,000-man cut in military manpower.

However, he said, Taylor sent the following message to Gen. Wilford G. Wyman, continental Army commander, with headquarters at Ft. Monroe, Va.:

"As a precautionary measure in event troops are required in situations similar to that now current in Little Rock, Arkansas, CSUSA (chief of staff, U.S. Army) desire that you organize TFS (task force) of 1,000-1,200 strength in 82d Ab, 3d Inf, 1st Inf and 1st Armd Divs. In addition you should determine availability of MP (military police) units for this type duty."

Above units should initiate promptly suitable training programs under FM 19-25 and prepare plans for both air and motor movement.

The 1st Infantry Division is at Ft. Riley, Kan., the 1st Armored at Ft. Polk, La., the 82nd Airborne at Ft. Bragg, N.C., and the 3rd Infantry at Ft. Benning, Ga.

The "FM 19-25" reference was to a field manual which lays down the basis for training in civil disturbances to be given Army troops.

Appeared Prudent

"It appeared prudent in the military judgment of the chief of staff to send a precautionary reminder for possible duty covered by FM 19-25," Brucker told Russell.

"The units involved were designated primarily because of training considerations rather than because of their geographical location."

Incidentally, the units sent to Little Rock were from a division formerly led by Taylor, the 101st Airborne. Taylor, a native of Keytesville, Mo., is a 56-year old West Pointer with a special reputation for insistence on strict discipline.

Brucker said he himself assumed complete responsibility, acting under orders from President Eisenhower, for sending troops to Little Rock. He said Taylor considers himself responsible for military orders directing the readiness and conduct of troops.

Thus, the secretary said, there is no need to identify subordinates who carried out orders.

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 (UP)—Floodlights, illuminating this dominion capital's gray stone and spired Parliament Hill, flashed on at dusk tonight, marking the beginning of Canadian celebrations for the arrival of Queen Elizabeth II from England tomorrow.

The 100-year-old dominion capital was a busy place the last hours before the Queen's arrival by plane at 4:30 p.m. tomorrow at flag-draped Uplands Airport.

Some of her majesty's harder subjects staked out choice spots along the route to make certain they would get a glimpse of the queen and her husband. And it may be a chilly night, the temperature dipped to almost freezing last night and rose not much above 50 during the day. So far frost has not nipped the colorful displays of garden flowers which brighten the yards and parks along the spotless route.

Queen Elizabeth and her husband, Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, will occupy a three-room, two-bedroom suite in Rideau Hall, which has 60 rooms. It is situated in a 55-acre park, assuring the couple both private and quiet during the few hours of rest they will have in a busy four-day stay.

The Queen's arrival at the airport will be greeted by a 1-gun salute, the usual "breaking out" of the Queen's flag and a trumpet fanfare. After meeting with top dominion officials, she, her husband, and their party will drive slowly from the airport, to the city, to government house.

LONDON, Oct. 11 (UP)—Queen Elizabeth II sipped a champagne cocktail tonight at a palace farewell party on the eve of her visit to Canada and the United States.

The royal family, British government officials and the U.S. and Canadian ambassadors were there. U.S. Ambassador John Hay Whitney excused himself early to fly home and help with Washington preparations.

As White House guests, the British believe, the Queen will invite President and Mrs. Eisenhower to visit Buckingham Palace. The feeling here is that the Eisenhowers will accept.

Elizabeth is due at Government House in Ottawa 15 minutes before dusk Saturday.

On Monday she opens the Canadian Parliament, meets with her Canadian privy council and receives VIPs at a reception.

She and Philip leave Ottawa Wednesday for Williamsburg, Va. They will spend the night there.

On Thursday they fly to Washington in Eisenhower's personal plane. They leave New York Oct. 21 for London.

Aboard were: Col. Emory A. Hyde, Eugene, Ore.; Col. David M. Perkins, Wichita Falls, Texas; Lt. Col. Clinton G. Merrill, Syracuse, N. Y.; and Capt. E. A. Cathey, Bethel, Kan., he pilot.

Adj. Gen. F. W. Billado reported the wreckage found and ordered a helicopter to the scene to check identifying numbers from the aircraft.

He said that rescue crews would be unable to reach the site before Saturday because of difficult terrain.

The missing plane, an L-20 Beaver, was taking officers to Burlington to participate in training operations with Vermont reserve components.

Navy To Mothball 22 More Vessels

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (UP)—The Navy announced plans today to mothball an additional 22 ships in the first six months of next year in an effort to keep pace with the administration's stepped-up economy drive.

The ships include the Navy cruiser Albany, the submarine Balac, 10 destroyer-type vessels, and 10 smaller mine sweepers and auxiliary ships. The Navy said the active fleet would be cut to 90s vessels by next June 30.

Previously mothballed were the last of the Navy's active battle-ships, the Iowa and the Wisconsin.

The 22 ships affected by the new order are in addition to 60 which the Navy started decommissioning Aug. 5 after former defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson ordered a 100,000-man cut in military manpower.

Second Satellite Launching Seen

utes—and to be picking up speed. An earlier estimate put the satellite's orbiting time at 96 1/2 seconds.

The whole question of speed in these circumstances is a relative thing. Yesterday the scientists working at MIT concluded the rocket was pulling ahead of Sputnik because it had lost altitude and was making a smaller orbit. The rocket would theoretically continue to gain on Sputnik until it reached an altitude where friction from the denser atmosphere, slowing it down, would offset the advantage of a shorter trip around the world.

Like Horse Race

The situation can be compared roughly to two horses racing on a circular track. Even though they were galloping at the same speed throughout, the one on the inside—the nearest the rail—would win because it had the shortest distance to travel.

Dr. J. Allen Hynek, who is in charge of the optical tracking program for the Smithsonian Institution's Astrophysical Observatory at Cambridge, Mass., said the orbit of the rocket was worked out in 2 seconds by MIT's electronic "brain."

But days of observations and preliminary calculations were required before the big computer could go to work. The machine operates at the rate of 40,000 calculations per second.

Other data produced by the computer showed the rocket was swinging in an orbit which brought it as close to the earth as 143 miles and as far away as 363.

"These elements still are being checked," Hynek said, "and cannot be regarded as final as the orbit is constantly changing minutely."

2-3 More Weeks

He estimated the rocket, which is larger than the true satellite and gives off a brighter reflection, has two or three more weeks of life left.

President Eisenhower met with his Cabinet and other key advisers today to discuss the U. S. missile program and the cost of speeding it up. The White House would not comment officially on the conference.

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) joined with senators who are calling for an inquiry into why the Soviet Union was able to launch a satellite ahead of this country.

But he cautioned against pouring more money into the defense program blindly. Knowland is the Republican leader of the Senate.

In an interview, he said the appearance of Sputnik in the skies may rank eventually with the first airplane flights by the Wright brothers and the building of the first atomic bomb.

Only Time To Tell

"Only time will tell its real significance," Knowland said. "We must keep our sense of proportion and perspective."

The Democratic Advisory Council issued a statement in Washington expressing shock at Russia's scientific victory and calling for "an all-out national effort to regain our position in the armaments field."

The council contended the Russian achievement is proof that the Eisenhower administration "has been leading the people to believe that we have a national security which in fact we are rapidly losing."

Rep. Simpson (R-Pa.), chairman of the GOP Congressional Campaign Committee, accused the Democrats of shedding "crocodile tears."

"If the pseudo military experts in the Democrat party will just calm down," Simpson said, "the American people will reach their own conclusions that one moon satellite hasn't cost them their security."

In Chicago, Dr. Willy Ley, a New York rocket expert, suggested the United States could recover some scientific prestige by putting up a satellite that people could see clearly from the earth or shooting a rocket to the moon.

Ley told a news conference he thought a manned satellite could be launched by this country within six years.

Dr. V. Dobronravov, a Russian expert, also discussed flights to the moon today. He was quoted in Moscow as saying they would probably be made before the end of this century.

Meanwhile Moscow radio, heard in London, reported the Soviet satellite had completed its 100th orbit of the earth today and had traveled more than 234 million miles through space.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Nelson reside through the winter in the home they own at 105 Grayling lane. In summer they live in a little cottage at the foot of Pike's peak near Colorado Springs.

Nelson, a skilled mechanic, has work that can be done almost any time but late fall and winter.

They returned this week and Mrs. Nelson was amazed at the changes along DeSard street. She saw improvements, one store building razed and a new front to a well known department store. All had happened since she had been in Colorado.

U.S. Carrier Rams Ship In Dutch Harbor

ROTTERDAM, Netherlands Oct. 11 (AP)—Police reported the U.S. aircraft carrier Tarawa and an Italian steamship collided in Rotterdam Harbor tonight. Damage to both ships was believed to be slight.

The Italian vessel's name was given by the police as the Volodda—4,173 tons. She said the 38,500-ton Tarawa also hit and severely damaged a floating crane.

The collision, the police report said, occurred as the Tarawa was leaving Rotterdam Harbor after a reception aboard for actress Jayne Mansfield. The Tarawa continued on to the North Sea to take part in antisubmarine maneuvers in the North Sea and the Atlantic.

Miss Mansfield flew aboard the carrier in one of five helicopters containing officials and newsmen. The carrier's crew lined up on deck to form the letters J-A-Y-N-E as she approached.

When she alighted, yelling, whistling sailors broke ranks and mobbed her.

Capt. John Shannon rescued her and hustled her off the flight deck. Later she visited the U.S. destroyers Robert K. Huntington and Massey.

THE RESOLUTION was adopted. Delegates to the Southeastern Conference also set up a committee for study of the accreditation of museums in its area and discussed the possible use of symbols to distinguish museums from what it called "tourist traps."

Senators Blast Khrushchev Gall In Dulles Remark

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—Senate leaders jumped on Communist boss Nikita Khrushchev today for his suggestion that they grill Secretary of State Dulles about what the Kremlin leader contended was a deliberate U.S. effort to provoke war between Syria and Turkey.

"The gall of Khrushchev is almost incredible," said Sen. Mansfield of Montana the assistant Democratic leader.

"This is the sheerest piece of effrontery that I have ever heard of," Mansfield added in a statement that it was also "the most truthful statement I have ever heard of regarding a situation about which other members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, as well as the Senate leadership, have intimate and first-hand knowledge."

Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California agreed with Mansfield that the Senate needed no directions from the Kremlin.

"I don't think the Senate is about to follow any instructions of Mr. Khrushchev," Knowland told a reporter.

Public Racket No. 1

During the prohibition era, dating back to the Volstead act and a constitutional amendment in 1918, racketeering in the United States got its greatest start.

Those were the days of speakeasies and crime overlords of the type of "Scarface" Al Capone. At that time a vast illegal industry flourished in all the big cities of the country and, to a lesser degree, in towns and hamlets throughout the United States. This vast empire of crime had been unequalled in history.

When prohibition was ended, this monster of crime and degradation did not die but it suffered staggering blows and shrank until it could no longer provide a lush living for all the gangsters and criminals who had swarmed into the cesspool.

There appeared to be few fields fertile enough to provide the kind of living to which the gangsters had become accustomed. Nevertheless, the gangsters looked around and finally settled upon two fields that they thought might serve as substitutes.

Those two fields were union racketeering and "dope" peddling, with union racketeering running ahead.

Although not reluctant to violate any law, the wiser gangsters decided it would be more convenient to operate within the law and to "become respectable businessmen." Well, the gangsters soon saw that labor unions, particularly those in the loosely-knit lines of operation, were exempted from a large number of laws applying to ordinary racketeering. They also saw that, once a man became a top official in a union he could keep that position for life by staging phony elections with handpicked delegates.

This gave a double chance for more lush money. The gangsters, posing as union officials or as actually elected union officials, could blackmail business men practically with impunity by pretending to enforce union regulations or memberships.

Tranquilizers For Children

The proposal of a University of Oregon pediatrician to use tranquilizer pills to make emotionally disturbed children "easier to live with" is almost certain to arouse considerable controversy.

There is already a great deal of argument over the value and possible harm of these pills. Physicians are rather generally agreed that they should not be taken indiscriminately, or with as little consideration as one gives in taking an aspirin tablet. They cite the possibility that the pills may cause harm as well as good.

There are also those in and out of the medical profession who hold the view that more harm than good might come from lulling people into an attitude of relaxed indifference to the affairs of life and to what may happen. They think a race of fully contented people might also be a race of indolent, careless and unprogressive people. Others think there is little danger of this, since they do not believe that the pills are strong enough to nullify ambition. Some even go further and believe that a person who does not worry nor fret can work to better advantage and can accomplish more than one who is unhappy.

Arguments pretty much like these are likely to be used in discussing whether or not to give the tranquilizing pills to emotionally disturbed children. All of these arguments have their points. Nevertheless, for the reasons outlined, the proposal seems decidedly good.

Speaking before the American Academy of Pediatrics convention in Chicago, Dr. Charles Bradley of Portland, Ore., said:

"A major objective in the use of tranquilizers for children with behavior problems is to free them of disturbing symptoms long enough to permit them to build up confidence in themselves."

He explained that hostile, anxiety-ridden, bad-tempered children cannot take part in ordinary childhood activities and miss many experiences necessary to a healthy personality.

Dr. Bradley stressed that use of

The Teamsters Union, operating in a field affecting every type of business in every city, town and hamlet in the United States offered the ideal setup—for crime.

That was where Dave Beck, retiring president, and James R. Hoffa, newly elected president of the Teamsters Union horned in.

In addition to his $50,000 a year salary, which he will get for life, Beck was accused by a senate investigating committee of appropriating to his own use practically unlimited sums of union money. Hoffa, who also gets $50,000 a year, not only was accused of careless handling of union funds but of consorting with known racketeers, of forming phony unions made up of racketeers and of planning world domination by getting control of all means of travel. Beck was forced out of the presidency by the charges against him but he will still get his $50,000 a year for life.

Senator McClellan (Dem.-Ark.) chairman of the senate rackets investigating committee, said records of the Teamsters Union credentials committee "reveal some situations which are just plain scandalous."

In denying that the union's constitution had been violated in the election, Hoffa said Beck gave his interpretation of the constitution and that the executive board and convention approved it. Hoffa won the presidency by a three to one vote.

It is safe to say that Beck was forced to give the interpretation Hoffa wanted if he was to continue to receive $50,000 a year. It is equally safe to say that members of the executive board are already on the "grave train," over which union members have no control. The three-fourths of the delegates who voted for Hoffa have their eyes on the billions of dollars the union members pay in.

Unless congress takes strong action, Beck and the Teamsters Union could easily become a racket that would outdo the bootlegging racket in its heyday.

tranquilizers to calm the disturbed child may change the attitude of teachers and playmates toward him and this "may well be far more important in the long run than the direct effect of the drug."

Without a doubt, the doctor's statement went directly to the crux of the matter and if the pills will accomplish the desired result hundreds of thousands of children who now find themselves unable to adjust properly to their environment can be set on the right track.

Noted psychologists point out that no two siblings ever are raised in the same environment. Among those citing this fact is Dr. George W. Crane, writer of the editorial page column, "The Worried Clinic," carried daily in the Monroe Morning World, and author of the book, "Psychology Applied," and other books. Furthermore, even if brothers and sisters were raised under exactly the same circumstances, they would not react in the same way.

In many families there are several well-behaved children and perhaps one who does not adjust. Parents wonder how one can be so different from the others. Thus, so-called "black sheep" often get started in the wrong direction and never change.

If, as Dr. Bradley believes, tranquilizing pills could keep a child on a well-balanced and good-tempered plane during the formative years, incalculable good could result.

Ancient Mesopotamia's Code of Hammurabi allowed surgeons to charge 10 shekels for a serious operation performed successfully on a patrician, the National Geographic Magazine says. The surgeons could charge plebeians only five shekels and slaves two shekels.

The average person, living to age 68.8 years, will drink 12,000 quarts of milk in his lifetime and consume several times his own weight in butter, cheese, and about 1,032 quarts of ice cream.

More than one-third of the total peach crop in the United States is produced in California.

Fund For Republic Is Used To Study 'Questions Facing Americans Today'

The Fund for the Republic, which may no longer be attributed to the Ford Foundation, is engaging in a study of the "questions facing Americans today." Such a study is worthwhile no matter by whom it is made. The results, the conclusions, the decisions reached may be of value or not depending upon the capabilities and integrity of those making the study and the correctness of the reporting of their discussions.

Among the questions which the Fund for the Republic says are facing Americans are these: "When a union member wants to change the policy of or the leadership of his union, does he have freedom of expression? What is the union's role in modern society? "When different religious groups discuss public bus service for parochial school children, are they approaching a fundamental problem in the church-state relationship in a democratic system?"

These may be among the important issues of the moment, although it would seem that the realistic danger to this republic arising out of its conflict with the Soviet Universal State, the United States thus far having lost ground since the Berlin Airlift in 1949. It appears to me that a study by great minds of the causes of our failure to meet the Russian attack upon us and our way of life would be more important than whether children attending parochial school should be kept off busses and prevented from receiving free orange juice.

DR. CRANE SAYS

Conventions Which Invite Wives Get Bigger Crowds

Notice Dr. Garrett's comment about the value of inviting wives to men's conventions. It applies in the sales field, as well as to medical and dental conventions. For wives are smart and often have a better idea of the typical consumer's attitude, than do the manufacturers themselves. Women are usually better psychologists than men, so admit them to your meetings.

Case W-318: Dr. Steve Garrett, aged about 58, is the former president of his state dental society.

I was in Atlanta recently to address the annual Hinman Clinic of dentists from all over the Southeast and we lunched together afterwards.

"Dr. Garrett, you certainly had a big crowd at my 11 o'clock meeting," I complimented him sincerely.

"Yes, they were even standing in the aisles," Dr. Garrett assented. "And this was the biggest turnout we have ever had in the 45 years of the Thomas P. Hinman Clinics."

"That is a splendid tribute to your publicity committee," I added.

"Yes, they have done a wonderful job," Dr. Garrett agreed. "But we have learned several new bits of strategy in recent years."

"As an example, we now stress the fact that wives are cordially invited to our convention. And we go out of our way to make their visit a happy one."

Convention Wives "For we have learned that when a wife is not very enthusiastic about urging her husband to be present."

"On the other hand, if she is also included in the invitation, she not only is more in favor of their attending, but will even prod his memory so he doesn't forget the date."

"Besides, when wives accompany their husbands to a convention, the men are not so likely to get into mischief. "There will be far less drinking and carousing around. Thus the men get to the morning clinics on time and everything works out better."

"Dr. Crane, I presume the same thing is true of sales meetings and other business conventions, isn't it?"

Bring Your Wives Yes, indeed! And many farsighted companies not only invite the wives of their salesmen nowadays, but go further than the mere planning of card parties or shopping excursions for those ladies.

Actually, a salesman's best manager is an understanding wife who cheers him on, instead of throwing ice water on his dejected spirits when he returns home from a fruitless day of calling on prospects.

A salesman needs a tremendous amount of enthusiasm and pep. And one good way to perk up a salesman who has gone stale from reciting the same sales story hundreds of times, is to give him a new approach.

If his wife has attended some of the actual sales meetings with her husband, she may then absorb ideas that he missed.

Besides, she always can inject the feminine viewpoint, which often is better than the manufacturer's ideas. For women can approach the product more nearly from the angle of the prospect or customer.

Consequently, a wife who has been in the actual sales meeting can offer her husband an occasional new slant which will perk up his zeal and zoom his success.

Women Are Smart Sales managers of the past often clung to the old-fashioned idea that women were not as smart as men.

And when they reluctantly did invite the ladies to their conventions, they carefully shooed them away from the official sales demonstrations and pep talks to the men.

Instead, they planned card parties or shopping trips and tours of the city for the wives.

Some of that is still O.K., but smart sales managers now include the wives in a few actual sales meetings.

As a rule, women are naturally better psychologists than men, so it is very inefficient not to take advantage of their brains and clever sales ideas.

So send for my booklet "The New Psychology of Advertising & Selling," enclosing a stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit). Many corporations use it for sales training purposes.

But what, may I ask, is a "politically polarized world"? Perhaps the consultants will answer that. I suppose it means that the political world is divided between the two extremes, the East and the West, communism and capitalism, totalitarianism and democracy. But where is there such a precise division?

Anyhow, we are now to have an investigation, millions of dollars worth of investigation. Too bad that Voltaire is not alive to investigate the investigators, or Marx to curse them for the poverty of their ideas, or Joe McCarthy to haul them before his committee to discover their foibles.

Which nation manages to survive this current military standstill will be determined by which is able to remain strong economically, militarily and morally. And not necessarily in that order.

If we allow this breakthrough to panic us into wild extravagance that will further cheapen our dollar and jeopardize our solvency, then history will have to record that we were scared to death.

Rather let this competitive challenge get us off our cotton-pickin' posters and back onto our toes from where we may again, outreaching one another, set the pace for the world.

Almighty God, our Leader And Guide, help us to be careful of our speech and our thoughts. In Christ's name we ask. Amen.

Sales Of Six Million-Plus Cars Annually Now Normal

A. R. finished paying off his loan on a 1955 model Ford during their past August. Although he hasn't yet seen the new models, he plans to go to his neighborhood Ford dealer this coming March and trade in his car for a 1958 on a new installment contract.

Says he: "The car is getting to the age where I'll be having trouble with it. I'm already spending big money on repairs. They don't make cars to last long these days."

R. F. has owned his 1956 Chevrolet outright since he bought it. Although he hasn't seen the new models either, he also plans to go to his dealer in the spring, trade in for a '58.

Says he: "I like to trade in every couple of years. In fact, if I can see my way clear and I really like the new Chevy, I may keep this one as a second car and take a loan to buy a new one."

Neither A. R. nor R. F. has told any poll-taker what he plans to do. Nor have they notified the dealers that they'll be buyers soon.

But when I interviewed them among a group I selected at random the other day, they were definite about their car buying plans.

Unless they are hit by an unanticipated financial blow between now and the spring, they'll be customers for cars. And unless 1958 autos aren't available in quantity because of devastating strikes in 1958, A. R. and R. F. will be typical of millions who'll buy new cars next year and who will be a mighty prop under the American economy.

For as a new three-year study by the University of Michigan's researchers dramatically emphasizes, we are truly a car-happy land. And while we may not duplicate 1955's fabulous record soon again, sales of 6 million-plus cars a year are becoming "normal."

Three out of four car owners are in the car market, at least once in every two years and, eight months, the survey reveals. And the study shows that people like A. R. and R. F. who say they intend to buy cars usually follow through and do buy.

The owner of a relatively new car is the most likely buyer of another new car. During their 32 months of intensive research, the Michigan experts found that not only were 42 per cent of the families in the market for a car at least once; an additional 14 per cent bought twice and another 4 per cent bought three or more times.

The two-car owner is becoming a vital force in the automobile market and he'll become more and more so. One out of 10 American families now owns two or more cars, triple the percentage as recently as 1949. One out of three in the $7,500-and-over income bracket owns a minimum of two cars, almost double the percentage of only eight years ago.

And a final major point: a significant percentage of people who when polled say they do not intend to buy cars go ahead and buy anyway. The number who told the researchers on a specific date that they didn't intend to buy a car and who then did buy comes to an impressive 20 per cent leading the Michigan experts to the conclusion "Unplanned purchases constitute an important part of total purchases."

To every one of us, this profile of the American auto buyer is of great importance, for what happens to the auto industry in 1958 will be crucial in deciding what happens to jobs and pay all over the land.

The auto industry alone uses about one-fifth of the nation's steel production, almost 65 per cent of the natural rubber and almost 62 per cent of the synthetic rubber production.

The motor transport industries alone account for one out of every seven jobs in the country, and more than 10 million are employed in auto manufacture or in industries directly allied to it.

All A. R. and R. F., and the 6 million-plus like them have to do to make 1958 a fine year in the auto industry is to act "normally."

And as a top auto man told a reporter recently, "If anyone had told us before the war that we'd be dissatisfied with 6 million cars in 1957 we'd have thought he was crazy."

I think it's a blessing. Like the nuclear bomb, the space satellite will contribute more to our deliverance than to our destruction.

We've received a very public kick in the pants at a time when we needed it desperately.

Americans, fat, prosperous and tranquilized, were smugly relaxing on the oars.

Our anxiety over military insecurity had been diluted.

Our desire for economic security had subverted our traditional quest for opportunity.

The dynamic drive which made us the powerhouse of the world was spending itself.

I believe, without this sudden, potent prodding, we might have died in our sleep.

Now this sudden realization that we Americans again have to "come from behind" can supply the necessary stimulus for a new renaissance.

Or, of course, it could wreck us.

It could "overstimulate" us, which is altogether as hazardous as being overly sedated.

Most of the frantic breast beating, demanding immediate Congressional inquiry into "how come they did this to us" is along political lines.

Yet some responsible individuals are insisting that we must go all out, throwing caution aside and dollars to the wind until we catch up.

Just lavish extravagance does not necessarily accelerate a scientific breakthrough around the Pentagon that, "if it works, it's obsolete."

Alongside our own "Project Far-side," presently on-the-mark-and-set to send a camera to the moon, this Russian "Sputnik" is as out of date as a Model T.

I do not intend to underrate their accomplishment. Their scientists and their spies beat us to the first turn, and that is not unimportant.

But don't forget the Nazi Germans were able, similarly, to distort their economy, bleed the people for war preparations, and develop the V-2 rocket ahead of us. But the V-2 rocket could not save them in the end, because Germany lacked the economic resources and economic balance to fight what turned out to be a long war.

Which nation manages to survive this current military standstill will be determined by which is able to remain strong economically, militarily and morally. And not necessarily in that order.

If we allow this breakthrough to panic us into wild extravagance that will further cheapen our dollar and jeopardize our solvency, then history will have to record that we were scared to death.

Rather let this competitive challenge get us off our cotton-pickin' posters and back onto our toes from where we may again, outreaching one another, set the pace for the world.

Stocks Decline On Great Volume

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP) — A churning stock market piled up the biggest volume in two years today in an up-and-down session which saw closing prices a bit on the downside.

Selling and buying drives put the high-speed ticker tape behind the pace of transactions on five separate occasions in a turbulent afternoon to yesterday's big break, the worst in two years.

Turnover soared to 4,460,000 shares compared with 3,300,000 yesterday. It was the heaviest since 5,500,000 shares changed hands Sept. 27, 1955, in a recovery from the first slump following President Eisenhower's heart attack.

The decline on average, slight as it was, set back the market average to its lowest point since March 31, 1955.

A late rally by aircraft and missile stocks was prompted by news that a missile believed to be Douglas Aircraft's, 500-mile Thor was tested successfully.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped 30 cents to $159.40, a 1957 low, with the industrial down 10 cents, the utilities down 50 cents, both to new '57 lows, and the rails unchanged.

Of 1,230 issues traded — the broadest market since Dec. 31 — 656 issues declined and 342 rose. New lows for the year totaled 487 and new highs—zero.

Of the 15 most active stocks, 8 rose, 5 fell and one was unchanged.

Corporate bonds declined in the heaviest trading of the year. U.S. government bonds were mixed in moderate dealings over the counter.

COTTON LETTER

An increased crop movement appeared to have brought a few hedges into the market which, coupled with Commission House liquidation, caused a moderate decline. Early weakness in the stock market also seemed to have an effect. The large spot houses were relatively inactive.

Unfixed call sales as of October 4 totaled 584,000 bales vs 1,327,000 a year ago. U. S. imports of cotton goods from Japan for the first six months of 1957 totaled 52,000 square yards vs 102,000,000 for the same period a year ago. Liverpool futures declined again in small selling possibly on fear that the U. S. might go to an export subsidy.

COTTON NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP) Cotton futures sagged with hedge selling and liquidation keeping the market on the defensive during much of the day. Final prices were 35 to 90 cents a bale lower. Losses at one time extended to $1.15 a bale.

Professional short covering and trade buying imparted a steadier tone to current crop months toward the close.

The weather was generally favorable over the main cotton belt although temperatures were cool.

Hedge selling increased and was attributed to the expanding movement of the new crop. The cotton textile market remained slow.

There were no October transferable notices issued. With nearby October futures relatively steady.

Eastland Says Cotton Must Be 'Competitive'

CLEVELAND, Miss., Oct. 11 (AP) — Sen. James Eastland (D-Miss.) said cotton must compete with synthetics if the cotton farmer is to remain in business.

Addressing the Farm Bureau meeting here last night, Eastland said cotton farmers face a 12-800,000-acre allotment by 1959 "unless certain steps are taken."

"A way must be found to produce our cotton cheaper if we are to compete with the synthetics, both at home and abroad."

He said before the cotton export act was passed, exports had fallen to slightly above two million bales annually and a 14 1/2 million-bale surplus was piled up.

"Since then," he said, "we exported 3 1/2 million bales last year and exports this year should reach 5 1/2 million bales."

"This will cost the treasury 750 million dollars."

Eastland Says Cotton Must Be 'Competitive'

Eastland said the increase in exports by the United States had stopped foreign cotton producers from increasing and cotton growers are competing fairly well with foreign producers of cotton and synthetics.

Eastland, a cotton planter himself, said he favors a 31 cent per pound price support program for 1958 and a 25 cent per acreage increase for Mississippi cotton.

Public Racket No. 1

During the prohibition era, dating back to the Volstead act and a constitutional amendment in 1918, racketeering in the United States got its greatest start.

Those were the days of speakeasies and crime overlords of the type of "Scarface" Al Capone. At that time a vast illegal industry flourished in all the big cities of the country and, to a lesser degree, in towns and hamlets throughout the United States. This vast empire of crime had been unequalled in history.

When prohibition was ended, this monster of crime and degradation did not die but it suffered staggering blows and shrank until it could no longer provide a lush living for all the gangsters and criminals who had swarmed into the cesspool.

There appeared to be few fields fertile enough to provide the kind of living to which the gangsters had become accustomed. Nevertheless, the gangsters looked around and finally settled upon two fields that they thought might serve as substitutes.

Those two fields were union racketeering and "dope" peddling, with union racketeering running ahead.

Although not reluctant to violate any law, the wiser gangsters decided it would be more convenient to operate within the law and to "become respectable businessmen." Well, the gangsters soon saw that labor unions, particularly those in the loosely-knit lines of operation, were exempted from a large number of laws applying to ordinary racketeering. They also saw that, once a man became a top official in a union he could keep that position for life by staging phony elections with handpicked delegates.

This gave a double chance for more lush money. The gangsters, posing as union officials or as actually elected union officials, could blackmail business men practically with impunity by pretending to enforce union regulations or memberships.

Tranquilizers For Children

The proposal of a University of Oregon pediatrician to use tranquilizer pills to make emotionally disturbed children "easier to live with" is almost certain to arouse considerable controversy.

There is already a great deal of argument over the value and possible harm of these pills. Physicians are rather generally agreed that they should not be taken indiscriminately, or with as little consideration as one gives in taking an aspirin tablet. They cite the possibility that the pills may cause harm as well as good.

There are also those in and out of the medical profession who hold the view that more harm than good might come from lulling people into an attitude of relaxed indifference to the affairs of life and to what may happen. They think a race of fully contented people might also be a race of indolent, careless and unprogressive people. Others think there is little danger of this, since they do not believe that the pills are strong enough to nullify ambition. Some even go further and believe that a person who does not worry nor fret can work to better advantage and can accomplish more than one who is unhappy.

Arguments pretty much like these are likely to be used in discussing whether or not to give the tranquilizing pills to emotionally disturbed children. All of these arguments have their points. Nevertheless, for the reasons outlined, the proposal seems decidedly good.

Speaking before the American Academy of Pediatrics convention in Chicago, Dr. Charles Bradley of Portland, Ore., said:

"A major objective in the use of tranquilizers for children with behavior problems is to free them of disturbing symptoms long enough to permit them to build up confidence in themselves."

He explained that hostile, anxiety-ridden, bad-tempered children can not take part in ordinary childhood activities and miss many experiences necessary to a healthy personality.

Dr. Bradley stressed that use of

The Teamsters Union, operating in a field affecting every type of business in every city, town and hamlet in the United States offered the ideal setup—for crime.

That was where Dave Beck, retiring president, and James R. Hoffa, newly elected president of the Teamsters Union horned in.

In addition to his $50,000 a year salary, which he will get for life, Beck was accused by a senate investigating committee of appropriating to his own use practically unlimited sums of union money. Hoffa, who also gets $50,000 a year, not only was accused of careless handling of union funds but of conspiring with known racketeers, of forming phony unions made up of racketeers and of planning world domination by getting control of all means of travel. Beck was forced out of the presidency by the charges against him but he will still get his $50,000 a year for life.

Senator McClellan (Dem.-Ark.) chairman of the senate records investigating committee, said records of the Teamsters Union credentials committee "reveal some situations which are just plain scandalous."

In denying that the union's constitution had been violated in the election, Hoffa said Beck gave his interpretation of the constitution and that the executive board and convention approved it. Hoffa won the presidency by a three to one vote.

It is safe to say that Beck was forced to give the interpretation Hoffa wanted if he was to continue to receive $50,000 a year. It is equally safe to say that members of the executive board are already on the "grave train," over which union members have no control. The three-fourths of the delegates who voted for Hoffa have their eyes on the billions of dollars the union members pay in.

Unless congress takes strong action, Beck and the Teamsters Union could easily become a racket that would outdo the bootlegging racket in its heyday.

tranquilizers to calm the disturbed child may change the attitude of teachers and playmates toward him and this "may well be far more important in the long run than the direct effect of the drug."

Without a doubt, the doctor's statement went directly to the crux of the matter and if the pills will accomplish the desired result hundreds of thousands of children who now find themselves unable to adjust properly to their environment can be set on the right track.

Noted psychologists point out that no two siblings ever are raised in the same environment. Among those citing this fact is Dr. George W. Crane, writer of the editorial page column, "The Worry Clinic," carried daily in the Monroe Morning World, and author of the book, "Psychology Applied," and other books. Furthermore, even if brothers and sisters were raised under exactly the same circumstances, they would not react in the same way.

In many families there are several well-behaved children and perhaps one who does not adjust. Parents wonder how one can be so different from the others. Thus, so-called "black sheep" often get started in the wrong direction and never change.

If, as Dr. Bradley believes, tranquilizing pills could keep a child on a well-balanced and good-tempered plane during the formative years, incalculable good could result.

Ancient Mesopotamia's Code of Hammurabi allowed surgeons to charge 10 shekels for a serious operation performed successfully on a patrician, the National Geographic Magazine says. The surgeons could charge plebians only five shekels and slaves two shekels.

The average person, living to age 68.8 years, will drink 12,000 quarts of milk in his lifetime and consume several times his own weight in butter, cheese, and about 1.032 quarts of ice cream.

More than one-third of the total peach crop in the United States is produced in California.

Fund For Republic Is Used To Study 'Questions Facing Americans Today'

The Fund for the Republic, which may no longer be attributed to the Ford Foundation, is engaged in a study of the "questions facing Americans today." Such a study is worthwhile no matter by whom it is made. The results, the conclusions, the decisions reached may be of value or not depending upon the capabilities and integrity of those making the study and the correctness of the reporting of their discussions.

Among the questions which the Fund for the Republic says are facing Americans are these:

"When a union member wants to change the policy of or the leadership of his union, does he have freedom of expression? What is the union's role in modern society?"

"When different religious groups discuss public bus service for parochial school children, are they approaching a fundamental problem in the church-state relationship in a democratic system?"

These may be among the important issues of the moment, although it would seem that they might be trivial compared with the realistic danger to this republic arising out of its conflict with the Soviet Union. State, the United States thus far having lost ground since the Berlin Airlift in 1949. It appears to me that a study by great minds of the causes of our failure to meet the Russian attack upon us and our way of life would be more important than whether children attending parochial schools should be kept off buses and prevented from receiving free orange juice.

But maybe not. Perhaps A. R. Berle Jr., Scott Buchanan, E. C. Barker, Eric Goldman, Clark Kerr, Henry R. Luce, Father John Courtney Murray, Reinhold Niebuhr, Isidore L. Rabi, A. R. and R. F. who say they intend to buy cars usually follow through and do buy.

The owner of a relatively new nuclear bomb, the space satellite will contribute more to our deliverance than to our destruction. We've received a very public kick in the pants at a time when we needed it desperately.

Americans, fat, prosperous and tranquilized, were smugly relaxing on the oars.

Our anxiety over military insecurity had been dulled.

Our desire for economic security had substituted our traditional quest for opportunity.

The dynamic drive which made us the powerhouse of the world was spending itself.

I believe, without this sudden, potent prodding, we might have died in our sleep.

Now this sudden realization that we Americans again have to "come from behind" can supply the necessary stimulus for a new renaissance.

Or, of course, it could wreck us.

It could "overstimulate" us, which is altogether as hazardous as being overly relaxed.

Most of the frantic breast beating, demanding immediate Congressional inquiry into "how come they did this to us" is along political lines.

Yet some responsible individuals are insisting that we must go all out, throwing caution aside and dollars to the wind until we catch up.

Just lavish extravagance does not necessarily accelerate a scientific breakthrough.

It is axiomatic around the Pentagon that "if it works, it's obsolete."

Alongside our own "Project Far-side," presently on the mark and set to send a camera to the moon, this Russian "Sputnik" is as out of date as a Model T.

I do not intend to understate their accomplishment. The men scientists and their spies beat us to the first turn, and that is not unimportant.

But don't forget the Nazi Germans were able, similarly, to distort their economy, bleed the people for war preparations, and develop the V-2 rocket ahead of us. But the V-2 rocket could not save them in the end, because Germany lacked the economic resources and economic balance to fight what turned out to be a long war.

Which nation manages to survive this current military standoff will be determined by which is able to remain strong economically, militarily and morally. And not necessarily in that order.

If we allow this breakthrough to panic us into wild extravagance that will further cheapen our dollar and jeopardize our solvency, then history will have to record that we were scared to death.

Rather let this competitive challenge get us off our cotton-pickin' posters and back onto our toes from where we may again, out-reaching one another, set the pace for the world.

Sales Of Six Million-Plus Cars Annually Now Normal

A. R. finished paying off his loan on a 1955 model Ford, this past August. Although he hasn't yet seen the new models, Ford to go to his neighborhood Ford dealer in his car for a 1958 on a new installment contract.

Says he: "The car is getting to the age where I'll be having trouble with it. I'm already spending big money on repairs. They don't make cars to last long these days."

R. F. has owned his 1956 Chevrolet outright since he bought it. Although he hasn't seen the new models either, he also plans to go to his dealer in the spring, trade in for a '58.

Says he: "I like to trade in every couple of years. In fact, if I can see my way clear and I really like the new Chevy, I when I can buy a new car and take a loan to buy a new one."

Neither A. R. nor R. F. has told any poll-taker what he plans to do. Nor have they notified the dealers that they'll be buyers soon.

But when I interviewed them among a group I selected at random, the other day, they were definite about their car buying plans.

Unless they are hit by an unanticipated financial blow between now and the spring, they'll be the customers for cars. And unless 1958 autos aren't available in quantity because of devastating strikes in 1958, A. R. and R. F. will be typical of millions who'll buy new cars next year and who will be a mighty prop under the American economy.

For as a new three-year study by the University of Michigan and researchers dramatically emphasizes, we are truly a car-happy land. And while we may not duplicate 1955's fabulous record soon again, sales of 6 million-plus cars a year are becoming "normal."

Three out of four car owners are in the car market, at least once in every two years and eight months, the survey reveals. And the study shows that people like A. R. and R. F. who say they intend to buy cars usually follow through and do buy.

The owner of a relatively new car is the most likely buyer of another new car. During their 32 months of intensive research, the Michigan experts found that only 42 per cent of the families in the market for a car at least once; an additional 14 per cent bought twice and another 4 per cent bought three or more times.

The two-car owner is becoming a vital force in the automobile market and he'll become more and more so. One out of 10 American families now owns two or more cars, triple the percentage as recently as 1949. One out of three in the $7,500-and-over income bracket owns a minimum of two cars, almost double the percentage of only eight years ago.

A final major point, a significant percentage of people who when polled say they do not intend to buy a car and who then did buy comes to an impressive 20 per cent, leading the Michigan experts to the conclusion: "Unplanned purchases constitute an important part of total purchases."

To every one of us, this profile of the American auto buyer is of great importance, for what happens to the auto industry in 1958 will be crucial in deciding what happens to jobs and pay all over the land.

The auto industry alone uses about one-fifth of the nation's steel production, almost 65 per cent of the natural rubber and almost 62 per cent of the synthetic rubber production.

The motor transport industries alone account for one out of every seven jobs in the country, and more than 10 million are employed in auto manufacturing or in industries directly allied to it.

All A. R. and R. F. and the 6 million-plus like them have to do to make just a fine year in the auto industry is to act "normally."

And as a top auto man told a reporter recently, "If anyone had told us before the war that we'd be dissatisfied with 6 million cars in 1957, we'd have thought he was crazy."

Seest thou a man that is hasty in his words? there is more hope of a fool than of him. — Proverbs 29:20.

You have heard the expression, "His mind was in neutral while his tongue rolled on." The Bible also takes note of the tongue and its considered evils and he, therefore, warned against hasty and harmful speech. Perhaps the most destructive of many forms of sinful speech is cursing. Such words are usually spoken in anger or in a spirit of braggadocio. In any case, they are the earmark of the foolish and bring discredit to the church.

Almighty God, our Leader and Guide, help us to be careful of our speech and our thoughts. In Christ's name we ask, Amen.

DR. CRANE SAYS

Conventions Which Invite Wives Get Bigger Crowds

Notice Dr. Garrett's comment about the value of inviting wives to men's conventions. It applies in the sales field, as well as to medical and dental conventions.

For wives are smart and often have a better idea of the typical consumer's attitude, than do the manufacturers themselves. Women are usually better psychologists than men, so admit them to your meetings.

Case W-316: Dr. Steve Garrett, aged about 58, is the former president of his state dental society.

I was in Atlanta recently to address the annual Hinman Clinic of dentists from all over the Southeast and we lunched together afterwards.

"Dr. Garrett, you certainly had a big crowd at my 11 o'clock meeting," I complimented him sincerely.

"Yes, they were even standing in the aisles," Dr. Garrett assented. "And this was the biggest turnout we have ever had in the 45 years of the Thomas P. Hinman Clinics."

"That is a splendid tribute to your publicity committee," I added.

"Yes, they have done a wonderful job," Dr. Garrett agreed. "But we have learned several new bits of strategy in recent years."

"As an example, we now stress the fact that wives are cordially invited to our convention. And we go out of our way to make their visit a happy one."

Convention Wives
"For we have learned that when a wife is not invited to a convention, she is not very enthusiastic about urging her husband to be present."

"On the other hand, if she is also included in the invitation, she not only is more in favor of their attending, but will even prod his memory so he doesn't forget the date."

Besides, when wives accompany their husbands to a convention, the men are not so likely to get into mischief.

"There will be far less drinking and carousing around. Thus the men get to the morning clinics on time and everything works out better."

"Dr. Crane, I presume the same thing is true of sales meetings and other business conventions, isn't it?"

Yes, indeed! And many farsighted companies not only invite the wives of their salesmen nowadays, but go further than the mere planning of card parties or shopping excursions for those ladies.

Actually, a salesman's best manager is an understanding wife who cheers him on, instead of throwing ice water on his dejected spirits when he returns home from a fruitless day of calling on prospects.

A salesman needs a tremendous amount of enthusiasm and pep. And one good way to perk up a salesman who has gone stale from reciting the same sales story hundreds of times, is to give him a new approach.

If his wife has attended some of the actual sales meetings with her husband, she may then absorb ideas that he missed.

Besides, she always can inject the feminine viewpoint, which often is better than the manufacturer's ideas. For women can approach the product more nearly from the angle of the prospect or customer.

Consequently, a wife who has been in the actual sales meeting can offer her husband an occasional new slant which will perk up his zeal and zoom his success.

Women Are Smart
Sales managers of the past often clung to the old-fashioned idea that women were not as smart as men.

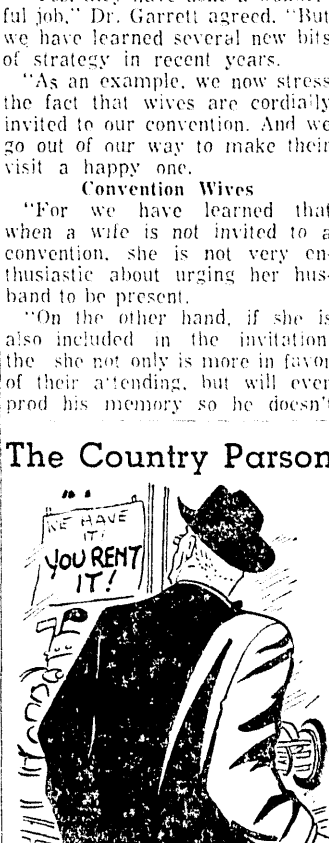

And when they reluctantly did invite the ladies to their conventions, they carefully shooed them away from the official sales demonstrations and pep talks to the men.

Instead, they planned card parties or shopping trips and tours of the city for the wives.

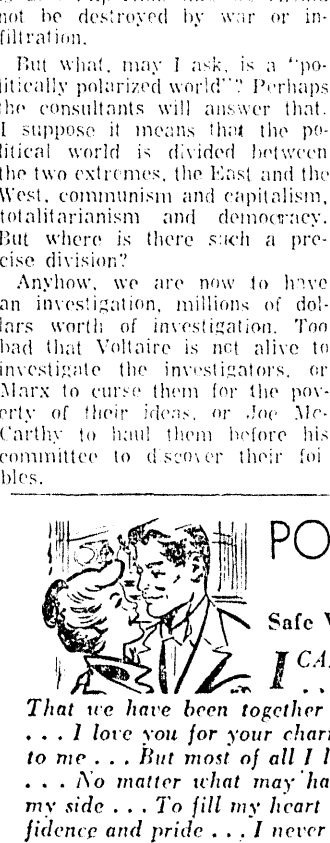

Some of that is still O.K., but smart sales managers now include the wives in a few actual sales meetings.

As a rule, women are naturally better psychologists than men, so it is very inefficient not to take advantage of their brains and clever sales ideas.

night with a 15-0 victory over the Start Owls. The Tide converted touchdowns.

The winners scored two touch-periods and one in the fourth

while the losers did not manage a scoring threat until the final quarter.

Columbia turned a recovered

fumble into their first touchdown with halfback Bobby Henry going over 15 yards out for the score.

Quarterback Doyle Thornton ran for the extra point. Henry also scored the second Tide touchdown, going 10 yards to paydirt and halfback Butchie Darden rushed for the point-after.

Kelly went 5 yards for his first touchdown in the second quarter.

Running from the fullback position, he rammed 15 yards for another TD before the half ended.

Thorn-ton scored the extra point that made it 15-0 at halftime.

Kelly went 15 yards to score in the third touchdown with halfback

James Mott sprinting 25 yards for another score. Holt William

Martin ran for the extra point.

Another lineman switched to fullback, guard Neil Nelberg, ran

20 yards for the final touchdown of the night. The winners and

Georgia's Crushing Ground Attack Beats Tulane, 13-6

By ED TUNSTALL
NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 11 (AP)—Georgia's strong passing game and unveiled a crushing ground attack tonight to defeat Tulane 13-6 before 30,000 fans.

Fullback Theron Sapp was anchor man in the Georgia ground attack that battered Tulane defenses in the first half. Although failing to score, he was the driving force in the first touchdown.

Georgia drove to the Tulane 1 in the opening minutes of the second quarter, but lost the ball when quarterback Charles Britt was stopped by guard John DiVietro on a jarring tackle. Tulane took over but lost the ball on the 7 when halfback Claude Mason fumbled and Georgia's Tommy Lewis recovered.

Two plays got the Bulldogs back to the 1 and fullback Wilbur Lofton smashed over for the score. Ken Cooper's conversion try was wide.

Georgia had a third quarter touchdown on Orr's 35-yard dash nullified by a holding penalty.

Georgia defense held Tulane at bay during the third period and a break came when halfback Tommy Warner fumbled a bad pitchout from quarterback Gene Newton. Center Dave Lloyd recovered on the Tulane 16.

Orr and Sapp alternated in taking cracks at the line, with Orr scoring from the nine on an off-tackle dash. Carl Manning's conversions gave the Bulldogs a 13-0 lead.

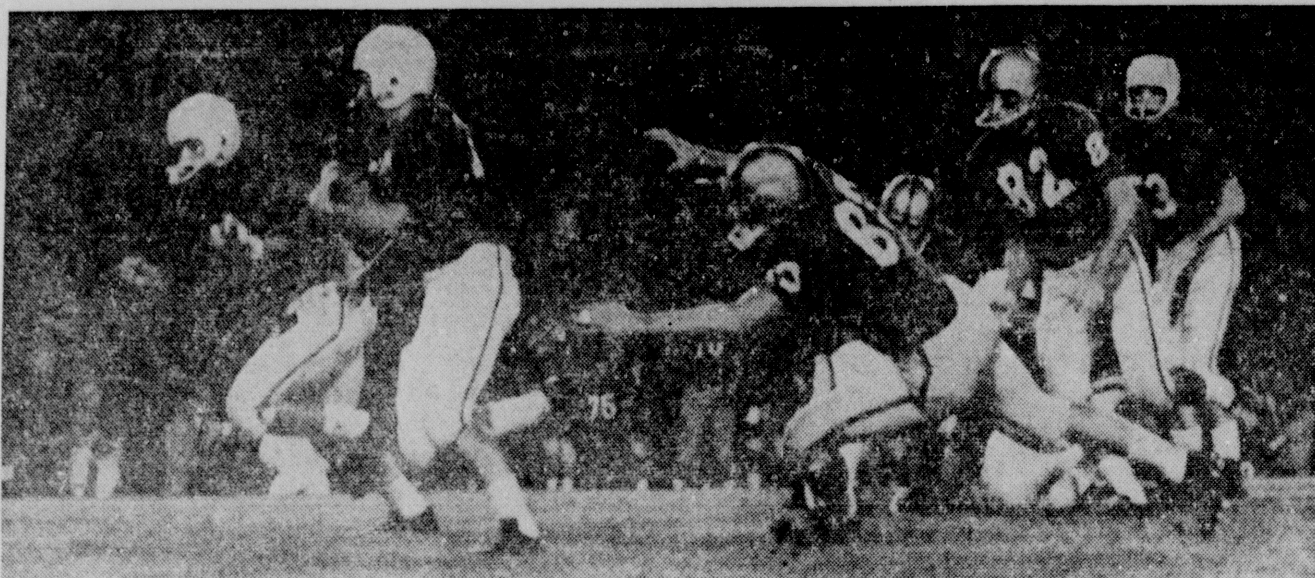

A penalty thwarted a Tulane drive on the Georgia four shortly before halftime, cutting off the most serious Greenie threat before the last period score.

The touchdown came on a 35-yard pass from sub quarterback Richie Pettibon to Newton. Newton's conversion try was wide.

Britt, a 19-year-old sophomore from North Augusta, S.C., entered the game as the leading passer in the Southeastern Conference, but he concentrated this time on sending hard-running backs into Tulane's inexperienced line.

Sapp and Orr bore the brunt of the attack and rolled up consistent gains. Britt attempted only four passes and completed two for 24 yards. He had one intercepted. Sapp gained 99 yards in 17 attempts and Orr accounted for 34 on seven tries.

Britt added his bit to the running with 36 yards in 11 tries,

Bearcats Drop Rebs, 14-0

RUSTON, La. (Special)—The Ruston High School Bearcats cut loose Sammy Simonton and Don Shows on first half touchdown runs here last night to topple the West Monroe High Rebels, 14-0, in a flu-created football game. They will meet again next month at Monroe in their regularly scheduled contest.

Last night's game was put on the docket after Ruston's date with Neville of Monroe was postponed and West Monroe scheduled scrap with Ferriday was cancelled because of flu at Ouachita and Ferriday.

Coach "Boss" Garnett's Bearcats, looming stronger as title contenders of district 2-AA, pushed Simonton over for the opening touchdown in the first quarter when the right halfback cut over left tackle and broke into the

Halimi, Macias To Settle Title Claims In November

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—"I'm no cheese champion and Macias will find that out soon enough," said Alphonse Halimi, France's claimant to the disputed world bantamweight boxing championship, today.

The dark-haired little fellow with the broad shoulders of a welterweight said he could hardly wait to get into the ring with Mexico's Raul (Raton) Macias to prove his point.

Halimi, a 23-year-old boxer-puncher, is recognized as champion in most parts of the world. Macias is hailed as champion by the American National Boxing Association, (N.B.A.) and Mexico. They will settle the dispute in a television 15-rounder in Los Angeles' Wrigley Field, Nov. 6.

An Algerian native, Halimi said at a press luncheon that he had read in the Mexican newspapers that Macias had called him "a cheese champion."

"I feel I am the true champion by my victory over the Italian who held the title, Maria D'Agata," said Halimi through interpreter Lew Burston of the International Boxing Club. "I'm no cheese champion and my one thought now is to remove any doubts as to my right to the title. I am very happy to get this opportunity at Macias."

The opportunity also will be worth $50,000 to Halimi, who has been guaranteed that sum by matchmaker George Parnassus of Los Angeles. That will be the biggest purse ever earned by a 118-pounder, according to boxing authority Nat Fleischer of Ring magazine. Fleischer, who considers Halimi the world champion, presented the Algerian with a championship belt at the luncheon.

Techmen To Host Improved S.L.I. At Ruston Tonight

RUSTON, La. (Special)—Louisiana Tech will be out to even up its Gulf States Conference standing at 1-1 when the Bulldogs take on Southwestern Louisiana at Ruston tonight.

The Techsters, set back by McNeese State (6-13) last week in the loop opener, will be up against a greatly improved S.L.I. team which will be seeking Gulf States number two. The Southwesterners rocked Northeast State, 6-0, last week and on Sept. 21 the Lafayette college tied last year's G.S.C. champs, Southeastern Louisiana, in a rugged 7-7 tussle.

Tech coaches are preparing for the worst and they point out that the Southwestern mentors have done a remarkable job of rebuilding this season. The visitors will present a lot of problems on the field for the Techsters. Last season the Bulldogs shook off a jinx to beat S.L.I. 33-6, for the first Tech win at Lafayette since back in 1948.

A review of Tech statistics after three bouts shows that the canines have been able to move the ball for good yardage this fall but have had tough luck getting across the goal line. They have averaged only 8.5 points per tilt but have powered for 220 net yards per game in rushing. Tech has given up 180 per battle rushing.

Tech's ability to move the ball is shown in first downs. The Red and Blue team has picked up 50 first downs in three games while limiting the opposition to a total of 38.

In the passing department the Bulldogs have averaged 33 yards a game and they have given up 67 yards through the air in each bout. Tech has completed 10 out of 32 aeriels and only two have been intercepted. On pass defense the Techsters have allowed 10 completions in 26 attempts and the alert Canines have grabbed off four interceptions.

The speedy Techmen have played heads-up ball concerning fumbles. They have recovered six fumbles out of the eight bobbles made by the opposition. Tech has fumbled six times but has yet to lose possession of the pizskin.

Halfback Paul Hynes and fullback B. K. Miller are leading the Tech scoring, each with 12 points. Hynes scored twice and Miller once against Stephen F. Austin and Miller went over again for one TD against McNeese.

TIDE ROMPS, 46-0
COLUMBIA, La. (Special)—Columbia's Crimson Tide romped to its first win of the year here last night with a 46-0 2-B conference victory over the Start Owls as converted center John Kelly ran for three touchdowns.

The winners scored two touchdowns in each of the first three periods and one in the fourth while the losers did not manage a scoring threat until the final quarter.

Columbia turned a recovered fumble into their first touchdown with halfback Bubba Henry going over from 15 yards out for the score. Quarterback Doyle Thornton ran for the extra point. Henry also scored the second Tide touchdown, going 10 yards to paydirt and halfback Butchie Darden rushing for the point-after.

Kelly went 5 yards for his first touchdown in the second quarter. Running from the fullback position, he rambled 45 yards for an other TD before the half ended. Thornton scored the extra point that made it 27-0 at halftime.

Kelly went 15 yards to score in the third touchdown with halfback James Mott sprinting 25 yards for another score. Half William Martin ran for the extra point.

Another lineman switched to fullback, guard Neil Nethery, ran 50 yards for the final touchdown of the night. The winless and scoreless Start team went to the Columbia 5 in this quarter but was held on downs.

CROWVILLE, 22-7
CROWVILLE, La. (Special)—There was a good time in Crowville last night, for their Bulldogs soundly drubbed the flu-ridden Winnboro Wildcats, 22-7, in the "duel of cousins."

For Coach Oliver Poole's Crowville club, it was a jubilant feeling to taste victory over arch-rival Winnboro.

The Winnboro-Crowville series has long been a bitter battle and the Bulldogs wasted no time last night in booting a first-quarter field goal to take and command the lead throughout the ball game.

With 11 players on the sick list through the week, Winnboro, playing in the first half without the services of quarterback Pete Moore, did not break into the scoring column until the final period.

But Crowville, intent on notching its first win over the Wildcats in approximately 14 years, was scoring twice in the second period and once again in the third. The Bulldogs led, 16-0, at halftime and rolled up their last touchdown when Harold Roberts intercepted a Wildcat pass on his own 30 and raced 70 yards for the touchdown.

Winnboro's star halfback, Tommy Earl, who returned to action last night, went around right end from the Crowville 27 to go all the way for Winnboro's lone score.

Moore, who entered the game in the second half, threw to back Benny Wiggins for the extra point. Halfback Bobby Caldwell, with the two, kicked Crowville's field goal on the fourth down. Later in the second quarter, J. T. Johnson went through the line from the two to score the Bulldogs' first touchdown.

It was set up by a 61-yard pass from Roberts to John Allen Brown. Caldwell returned to throw to Bobby Caldwell, a play that covered 15 yards, to score later in the period.

It was the first time Coach Oliver Poole had won over cousin Phillip Poole — both members of the football-famous Mississippi Pooles — since their appearance on the Franklin parish scene.

Crowville outgained Winnboro, 207 yards to 169, but the Bulldogs made most of their yardage through the air. They gained only 78 yards on the ground while Winnboro was rushing for 149.

Crowville had nine first downs to Winnboro's eight and the Wildcats made all their first downs in the second half. They gained only 16 yards rushing in the second half.

LA GRANGE, 14-6
LAKE CHARLES, La. (Oct. 11)—Gerald Smith scored once and kicked two conversions tonight to lead LaGrange to a 14-6 southwest district triple-A football victory over Jennings.

The winners scored in the second period on a 46-yard drive that ended as Donald "reux" smashed across. The final LaGrange tally was in the fourth on a one-yard run by Smith capping a 60-yard march.

Jennings drove 68 yards in the third period for its touchdown, with John Hudson going the final yard.

FAIR PARK, 6-0
BASTROP, La. (Special)—Class AAA Fair Park marched 84 yards in the third quarter for a touchdown and a hard fought 6-0 triumph over the class AA Bastrop Rams here last night.

John Trigg went around end for eight yards for the touchdown that gave the visitors their second straight victory after opening with three losses. Hyton Hanson attempted the conversion but failed.

Bastrop, winners of only one game, a 13-12 upset conference victory over Bayouville, threatened to score several times but couldn't make it. The winners also got several scoring threats going but was unable to cash in except in the third quarter.

The winners led in first downs, 11 to 7, and completed 3 of 7 passes while Bastrop threw 5 and completed 1. Fair Park gained 197 yards on the ground and the host team gained 129.

BLOCK STILL UNBEATEN
JONESVILLE, La. (Special)—Unbeaten Block defeated the class A Bunkie Panthers, 19-0, here last night for their fifth win of the season with touchdowns in the second and fourth quarters.

Fullback Clarence Richard went 10 yards over center for the initial touchdown for the Bears. Bonnie Atkins tried an unsuccessful place kick for the extra point.

Halfback Roscoe Wilson punched one yard over left — and for the final touchdown of the night for the class B Block team. The attempted conversion by Atkins was again no good.

Bear halfback Ed Hutchins' running was outstanding in the hard fought game. It was the second loss of the season for Bunkie against as many wins.

BYRD BEATS BOLTON
SHREVEPORT, La. (Special)—Second ranked Byrd crushed fumbling Bolton, fourth rated in state AAA football, 26-6, here last night.

Missouri Nips SMU, 7-6, For Upset Victory

DALLAS, Oct. 11 (AP)—Fighting Missouri stopped Southern Methodist an inch from the goal line with a minute and thirteen seconds to go tonight to win a 7-6 upset triumph.

The 17-point underdogs scored in the second period by cashing in on an SMU fumble. Big Charley Rash, Tiger guard, booted the extra point and that was the victory.

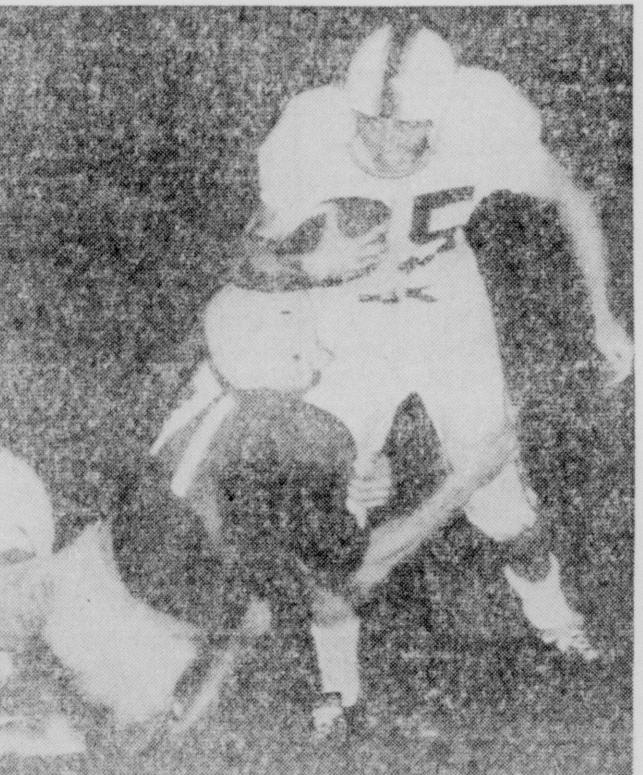

Southern Methodist smashed 72 yards to a touchdown with the kickoff opening the second half but Billy Dunn, the SMU quarterback who had passed for the score, missed the conversion.

SMU was in Missouri territory consistently in the last half and once reached the one-inch line only to be battered back by the battling Tiger line. In the final 33 seconds, Dunn tried a desperate field goal from the Missouri 34 but it was far short.

Miami Falls To Tar Heels By 20-14 Edge

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 11 (AP)—The University of North Carolina whipped Miami's Hurricanes, 20 to 13 tonight as the big, agile Tarheel line throttled five Miami scoring thrusts before a crowd of 47,166 in the Orange Bowl.

North Carolina scored after only four minutes and 50 seconds with Jim Schuler shooting 16 yards for the touchdown. Bill Blazer converted and the Tarheels were never headed.

They added another touchdown in the second period on the slick passing combination of Emil Decantis and Ron Marquette. Decantis passed to Marquette for 4 yards, putting the ball on the Miami 33, and Marquette tossed to Decantis for the score on the next play.

That put the beefy Jim Tatum-Coached team ahead, 14-0 and it looked like a bad night for Miami at halftime.

Miami came back in the third, sparked by Capt. John Varone and little Fran Curci, the 152-pound Miami quarterback. Curci passed to Varone for 21 and the first Hurricane touchdown with 10:58 left in the third quarter. Varone converted to cut North Carolina's lead to a single touchdown.

But the Carolinians drove 51 yards, climaxed by Curtis Hathaway's one-yard plunge for the score to lead, 20-7.

North Carolina 20 7 6 0—20
Miami 0 0 7 6—13

North Carolina scoring: Touchdowns—Schuler (16, run); Decantis (33, pass from Marquette); Hathaway (1, sneak). Conversions: Blazer (Peil).

Miami scoring: Touchdowns—Varone (21, pass from Curci); Sandie (1, plunge). Conversion—Varone.

ROUND TABLE, SWOON'S SON HEADING FIELD

CHICAGO, Oct. 11 (AP)—Swoon's Son, top-weighted at 128 pounds, and Round Table, year's top candidate for 3-year-old laurels, are expected to battle it out for first money in the $100,000 added Hawthorne Gold Cup at Hawthorne race course tomorrow.

An eight-horse field was named for the 1 1/4 mile event which closes Hawthorne's 35-day meet. With eight starters, the race will gross $128,550 and net the winner $77,950.

Besides Swoon's Son and Round Table, meeting for the first time, the field will include Find, Mahan, Eddie Schmidt, Bernburg, Speed Rouser and Top Award.

Alford G. Vanderbilt's Find, weighted at 119, and Mahan, owned by Hasty House farm, are given a good chance to upset E. Gay Drake's Swoon's Son or Travis Kerr's Round Table, in at 121.

The 4-year-old Swoon's Son has won seven stakes this year and is the world's seventh leading money winner with earnings of $741,905. Jockey Dave Erb will ask him to go the 1 1/4 mile distance for the first time in his career.

Round Table, top 3-year-old money winner, has won nine consecutive races. With Willie Shoemaker absent in the east, Willie Harnatz will ride him for the first time. Round Table has whipped older horses twice, including a good field in the 1 1/4 mile Hollywood Gold Cup. He has won $570,020 in two years.

Mahan came within a half length of defeating Swoon's Son in the Bidwell Memorial in Chicago recently. Swoon's Son set a track mark in the 1 1/4 mile race of 1:48 4-5.

Find, third in last year's Gold Cup behind Dedicate and Summer Tan, has captured four stakes this year. The 7-year-old Find has a lifetime money winning record of $638,854.

All the others, too, have won stakes except Top Award. This 3-year-old son of Citation has taken only one of 17 starts this year.

SOONERS NOT EXCEPTED

Surprises Loom For Some Top Ranked Grid Outfits

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

The Associated Press College football teams which have come through two or three games in such a way as to reach the upper section of the weekly rankings may be in for some unpleasant surprises today and that goes for Oklahoma, too.

The top-rated Sooners, who smothered Pitt and Iowa State in their first two starts, generally are regarded as too strong, too swift and too well-coached for their opponents. But there's just an outside possibility that the combination of flu and Texas could stop Oklahoma at Dallas.

Texas, beaten by South Carolina last week, doesn't look strong enough to beat a fit Oklahoma team. Darrell Royal, the smart young Longhorn coach, claims he hasn't much chance against his old teacher, Bud Wilkinson. But it might be another story if the after-effects of illness cost Clendon Thomas & Co. some of their speed and keenness.

Further down the ranking list there are plenty of chances for form reversals. Second-ranked Michigan State meets sixth-rated Michigan in an anything-can-happen game before 101,000 spectators at Ann Arbor. The line that makes the Spartans six point favorites could be wrong.

Texas A&M (No. 3) meets Houston, a low-scoring but tough team that has been beaten by Baylor; Duke (5) tackles unbeaten Rice, which may be stronger than its current No. 15 rating shows; and Army (10) plays Notre Dame (12), another of the many floundering teams.

Easier assignments are in store for Minnesota (4), Iowa (6) and Auburn (9) against a trio of non-winners, Northwestern, Indiana and Kentucky, and for Oregon State (7) against Idaho, which has won once. But even those teams have some fire power.

Michigan State appeared to have everything well in hand when it beat Indiana 54-0 and California 19-0, but Michigan also was impressive, especially on defense, in its 16-6 victory over Southern California and its 26-0 rout of Georgia.

Another crowd of over 100,000 is expected at Philadelphia for the resumption of the Army Notre Dame series, broken off 10 years ago mainly because of too great enthusiasm by the fans. Army, which appeared vulnerable to passes in last week's 27-13 victory over Penn State, is listed as a slight favorite. The outcome may well depend on how quickly the Notre Dame players have recovered from the 4-hour variety of influenza.

The big ones which will help decide conference races include Illinois-Ohio State and Wisconsin-Purdue (Big Ten); Brown-Dartmouth, Columbia-Yale and Penn-Princeton (Ivy League); Clemson-Virginia and Wake Forest-Maryland (Atlantic Coast); Georgia Tech-Louisiana State and Mississippi-Vanderbilt (Southeastern); Iowa State-Kansas (Big Eight); Arkansas-Baylor (Southwest); New Mexico-Cal State, Colorado State-Wyoming, Brigham Young-Utah and Denver-Montana (Skyline); Washington State-Stanford and Washington-UCLA (Pacific Coast).

Some top interconference tussles are Nebraska-Pittsburgh, William and Mary-Penn. State, Dayton-Boston College, Holy Cross-Marquette, Alabama-Texas Christian, Arizona-Colorado, Navy-California and Kansas State-College of Pacific.

There are two non-conference games. Southeastern Louisiana plays host to unbeaten Mississippi Southern and McNeese travels to Louisiana College.

The Northeast State at Southern (Ark.) State contest was canceled because of a flu outbreak on the Louisiana team.

SLI had been picked for the cellar at the beginning of the season but quickly tied Southeastern 7-7 and beat Northeast State 6-0. SLI now is runnerup to favored Northwestern State.

The SLI team boasts two good passers in quarterbacks Steven Gossen and Joe Calloway, and good runners in Frank Foreman and Ralph Davis.

Tech, which had been expected to fight for the title, was upset by McNeese in the season opener last weekend. Tech has a tough line and a balanced offense built around backs Wayne Bourgeois, Billy Bond and Jim McCabe.

Southeastern will be looking for its first victory against uncorrupted Mississippi Southern. The Louisiana chances depend on halfbacks Tommy Bell and Frank Bourgeois, fullback Bo Dickinson and halfback J. C. Arban, followed by 11 strong backfield reserves.

McNeese should take its fourth victory at the expense of Louisiana College. McNeese has been hard-hitting and deep in reserves.

BECAUSE OF FLU

Southern Game Postponed

Northeast State, with over half of its players and three members of the coaching staff ill with influenza, has postponed its Saturday night game with Southern State College at Magnolia, Arkansas.

Northeast Coach Devone Payne, himself suffering with the disease, announced the postponement yesterday after talking with Southern Coach Aubrey Smith. He said he didn't know when the game would eventually be played but hoped to set it for the week after Thanksgiving but said that would have to be worked out with Southern State. The last regularly scheduled game on the Northeast schedule is the traditional meeting with Louisiana Tech on Nov. 23.

Smith said there were several cases of flu among Southern squad members also.

Payne reported 20 members of the Indian squad sick Thursday when the possibility of postponing the game was first brought up. Most of the ill players have been sent home, Payne said, after the college infirmary became overcrowded.

HANEY TO BE BACK

Champs Won't Stand Pat Says Braves' John Quinn

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 11 (UP) — General manager John Quinn said today he hadn't given much thought to the 1958 world champion Milwaukee Braves, but "it's not our policy to stand pat."

Manager Fred Haney, packing his bags for his California home, agreed with Quinn. And to end any speculation about where he'll be next year, Haney said "I'm coming back here."

Haney said he hadn't talked with Quinn yet about a new one-year contract, but he probably got to it this weekend. "There had been rumors that Haney might quit because of illness," he said.

"I feel great," said Haney, who resigned today as "King Fred" of Bravesland.

"First things first," said Quinn in answer to a question about the makeup of next year's team.

"The pennant was the big thing, then the world series. We haven't had time to sit down and discuss movement of players within our system."

"There'll be new faces at our spring camp in Florida. It's possible we may send down some of the young men we now have to make room for others we think are more capable," Quinn said.

But he refused to disclose who some of the "new faces" might be.

Haney was a little more specific, but not much.

He said a "couple of pitchers" and outfield prospect Al Spangler might make the club.

Haney's pitching staff, except for his big three of Lew Burdette, Warren Spahn and Bob Buhl, and youngster Bob Troobridge, was a bit shoppin'. Fellows like Dave Jolly, Taylor Phillips, and possibly Juan Pizarro could be wearing minor league uniforms next year to make room for some promising youngsters.

SAYS CASEY

Yanks To Begin Hunt For Outfielder, Pitcher Soon

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (UP) — Casey Stengel, never one to dilly-dally, said today the Yankees will begin mending their fences within the next few days when he will meet with general manager George Weiss to determine what the club needs to regain the world championship in 1958.

"Maybe we need another outfielder and maybe we need another pitcher," said the Yankee manager. "Whatever it is we need, there's a chance we can get it from our farm clubs—Denver or Richmond. Or maybe we'll even make a deal. We'll see."

Stengel, his world series bruises practically healed already, was in good humor as he posed for photographers and talked informally about the series loss to Milwaukee and about his plans for next year.

"We lost the series on account of two reasons," he said. "One reason was defense and the other was (Lew) Burdette."

"Sure it hurt. It always does when you lose. But the Yankees never cry, and they never say the other club was lucky. You gotta give credit to the Braves. They were a good team and they licked us fair and square."

Regarding his proposed meeting with Weiss, Stengel said: "You generally wait a day or two before you start talking about what the club needs for next year. Anyone knows I used a jillion guys in left field this season. Next year maybe we can find a fella who can play the position permanently."

"They tell me we've got a lot of talent with the Denver and Richmond clubs. That Norm Siebern is a fine player. So is Mark Thomeberry, and there are others like Zack Monroe and Jim Coates, a couple of pitchers we have on our farm."

Cardinals Cut Two Veterans Off Of Roster

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 11 (AP)—Frank Lane, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, today announced "Sure it hurt. It always does when you lose. But the Yankees never cry, and they never say the other club was lucky. You gotta give credit to the Braves. They were a good team and they licked us fair and square."

Lane said they were being dropped to make room for more young ball players in the Cardinals.

The Cardinals finished in second place in the National League this year.

Lane said in wires to each of the veterans that the Cardinals would consider taking them back next spring if they had not been signed by another club and if there is room for them on the roster.

Lane said it was possible that Cooper could be again used as he was this season when he was listed as a coach. Shortly after the season began he was put back on the active list, serving as a pinch hitter and third-string catcher. The big catcher appeared in 46 games and batted .289.

Dickson was in 14 games, had a .53 record and an earned run average of 4.11.

Favorites In 2nd Round Of Twin City Tournament

Defending champion Elizabeth Miller and medalist Lorraine McMahon passed first round tests of the annual Twin City Amateur Championship Tournament for Women at Municipal Golf Club and will wait until Monday before reuniting play in an event to be completed Wednesday.

Mrs. Miller took her first round championship flight match from Mrs. Louise Hayes, 5 and 4, and Mrs. McMahon defeated Mrs. Bernice Watkins by the same count. Other first round matches saw Mrs. Goldie Cooper beat Mrs. Dot Nash, 2 and 1, and Mrs. Mary Irby win on default from Mrs. Helen Campbell.

First flight results were Mrs. Blanche Maxwell over Mrs. Doris Harbuck, 6 and 5; Mrs. Joan Usery over Mrs. Leora Lucy, 3 and 2; Virginia High over Mrs. Joyce Post, 2 and 1; and Mrs.

Houston Asks Field Of Big League Status

HOUSTON, Oct. 11 (UP) — A group of Houston businessmen and legislators will ask the state Legislature at its special session next week to okay a bond issue bid to build a big league baseball stadium in Houston.

Backers of the project met Thursday with Harris county legislators and made the proposal for the introduction of the bill. The legislators were hopeful permission could be obtained from Gov. Price Daniel to introduce the bill after other special bills are disposed of in the session.

Should the bill pass, Harris county residents will be asked to vote on a bond issue to build a 40,000-seat stadium with a parking area for 15,000 cars. Houston advertising man George Kirksey, one of the principal backers of the plan, said this stadium was all Houston needed to meet the qualifications necessary for a big league city.

There are two non-conference games. Southeastern Louisiana plays host to unbeaten Mississippi Southern and McNeese travels to Louisiana College.

Milwaukee Is Garbage Dump After Victory

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 11 (UP) — Milwaukee looked like it had been hit by a Martian invasion Friday. The mob of anywhere between 400,000 and 750,000 victory crazed Braves fans really tore the town apart.

Wisconsin Avenue resembled the city dump with beer bottles and cans, even champagne bottles, piled high in the gutters. The colorful "welcome" signs were ripped down off the light poles and strewn along the street, torn paper and confetti made the area appear as if it were covered by an early snowfall.

When the weary celebrants opened their bleary eyes they discovered the night's festivities cost them about $4,000.

The assistant superintendent of the Bureau of Street Sanitation said that a crew of 70 men on a time and a half for overtime basis worked around the clock to clean up the downtown area where it was estimated 200 tons of paper were picked up.

COLONIALS GAIN — Ray Looney, George Washington U. quarterback, made eight yards on this play to put the ball in scoring position on the U.S. Air Force two at Washington, D.C., last night. He was brought down by tackle Brock Strom (75). Other identifiable Air Academy players (white jerseys) are Larry Thomson (34), Charles Rodgers (84) and Charles Zaleski (64). G.W. tackle Marion Hior is dark jersey 64. President Eisenhower was in stands to see G.W. win, 20-0. (AP Wirephoto)

SOONERS NOT EXCEPTED

Surprises Loom For Some Top Ranked Grid Outfits

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
The Associated Press
College football teams which have come through two or three games in such a way as to reach the upper section of the weekly rankings may be in for some unpleasant surprises today and that goes for Oklahoma, too.

The top-rated Sooners, who smothered Pitt and Iowa State in their first two starts, generally are regarded as too strong, too swift and too well-coached for their opponents. But there's just an outside possibility that the combination of flu and Texas could stop Oklahoma at Dallas.

Texas, beaten by South Carolina last week, doesn't look strong enough to beat a fit Oklahoma team. Darrell Royal, the smart young Longhorn coach, claims he hasn't much chance against his old teacher, Bud Wilkinson. But it might be another story if the after-effects of illness cost Clendon Thomas & Co. some of their speed and keenness.

Further down the ranking list there are plenty of chances for form reversals. Second-ranked Michigan State meets sixth-rated Michigan in an anything-can-happen game before 101,000 spectators at Ann Arbor. The line that makes the Spartans six point favorites could be wrong.

Texas A&M (No. 3) meets Houston, a low-scoring but tough team that has been beaten by Baylor; Duke (5) tackles unbeaten Rice, which may be stronger than its current No. 15 rating shows; and Army (10) plays Notre Dame (12), another of the many flu-riddled teams.

Easier assignments are in store for Minnesota (4), Iowa (8) and Auburn (9) against a trio of non-winners, Northwestern, Indiana and Kentucky, and for Oregon State (7) against Idaho, which has won once. But even those teams have some fire power.

Michigan State appeared to have everything well in hand when it beat Indiana 54-0 and California 19-0, but Michigan also was impressive, especially on defense, in its 16-6 victory over Southern California and its 26-0 rout of Georgia.

Another crowd of over 100,000 is expected at Philadelphia for the resumption of the Army Notre Dame series, broken off 10 years ago mainly because of too-great enthusiasm by the fans. Army, which appeared vulnerable to passes in last week's 27-13 victory over Penn State, is listed as a slight favorite. The outcome may well depend on how quickly the Notre Dame players have recovered from the 4-hour variety of influenza.

The big ones which will help decide conference races include Illinois-Ohio State and Wisconsin-Purdue (Big Ten); Brown-Dartmouth, Columbia-Yale and Penn-Princeton (Ivy League); Clemson, Virginia and Wake Forest-Maryland (Atlantic Coast); Georgia Tech-Louisiana State and Mississippi-Vanderbilt (Southeastern); Iowa State-Kansas (Big Eight); Arkansas-Baylor (Southwest); New Mexico-Utah State, Colorado State-Wyoming, Brigham Young-Utah and Denver-Montana (Skyline); Washington State-Stanford and Washington-UCLA (Pacific Coast).

Some top intersectional tussles are Nebraska-Pittsburgh, William and Mary-Penn. State, Dayton-Boston College, Holy Cross-Marquette, Alabama-Texas Christian, Arizona-Colorado, Navy-California and Kansas State-College of Pacific.

FOR .500 JOB Craft Gets Year's Pact As Pilot For Athletics

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 11 (AP)—Harry Craft won a full-year contract today as manager of the Kansas City Athletics, mainly because his club played almost .500 ball after he took over last Aug. 6.

Craft, 42, has been a familiar face here through the past 15 years. When he succeeded Lou Boudreau the impression was left that Craft would get a full year at the helm if the Athletics perked up.

At the time the A's were in last place and in the midst of a losing streak. Craft led his team to 23 victories as against 27 losses and the A's finished seventh.

The matter of Craft's salary was not disclosed today nor were any of the principals in the transaction here. The announcement was made by Gordon Smith, A's public relations man.

Craft, who had seen the first five games of the World Series, was reportedly fishing near Monroe, La.

"If the outfield can be helped and the catching strengthened, I can see the A's as well on their way in 1958," he said.

"You can always use more pitching, but our pitching wasn't bad the latter part of the season."

Craft had been an A's coach since the club first moved here from Philadelphia. He moved to that spot in a short change-of-guard move after managing the Kansas City Blues in the American Association. His Blues finished second in 1953 and seventh in 1954.

The one-time major league centerfielder began his playing career with Monessen of the Pennsylvania State League in 1935.

He came to Kansas City late in 1942 as a player and spent 1943 here. He went into military service and was an air force instructor at William Jewell College in nearby Liberty, Mo.

He was back with the Blues as a player in 1947 and later served as a coach before taking over the minor league club here.

There are two non-conference games. Southeastern Louisiana plays host to unbeaten Mississippi Southern and McNeese travels to Louisiana College.

The Northeast State at Southern (Ark.) State contest was canceled because of a flu outbreak on the Louisiana team.

SLI had been picked for the cellar at the beginning of the season but quickly tied Southeastern 7-7 and beat Northeast State 6-0. SLI now is runnerup to favored Northwestern State.

The SLI team boasts two good passers in quarterbacks Steven Gossen and Joe Calloway, and good runners in Frank Foreman and Ralph Davis.

Tech, which had been expected to fight for the title, was upset by McNeese in the season opener last weekend. Tech has a tough line and a balanced offense built around backs Wayne Bourgeois, Billy Bond and Jim McCabe.

Southeastern will be looking for its first victory against unscathed Mississippi Southern. The Louisiana chances depend on halfbacks Tommy Bell and Frank Bourgeois, Fullback Bob Dickinson and halfback J. C. Arban, followed by 11 strong backfield reserves, lead the Mississippi Southern offense.

McNeese should take its fourth victory at the expense of Louisiana College. McNeese has been hard-hitting and deep in reserves.

THERE'S THAT MAN AGAIN—Picture of Milwaukee Braves pitcher Lew Burdette greets Casey Stengel as the New York Yankee manager tightens tie before mirror at Yankee Stadium yesterday. Burdette was the star of the World Series as he pitched the Braves to the championship with three of their four wins. Stengel paid final visit to the stadium before departing until next year. (AP Wirephoto)

BECAUSE OF FLU Southern Game Postponed

Northeast State, with over half of its players and three members of the coaching staff ill with influenza, has postponed its Saturday night game with Southern State College at Magnolia, Arkansas.

Northeast Coach Devone Payne, himself suffering with the disease, announced the postponement yesterday after talking with Southern Coach Auburn Smith.

He said he didn't know when the game would eventually be played but hoped to set it for the week after Thanksgiving but said that would have to be worked out with Southern State. The last regularly scheduled game on the Northeast schedule is the traditional meeting with Louisiana Tech on Nov. 23.

Smith said there were several cases of flu among Southern squad members also.

Payne reported 20 members of the Indian squad sick Thursday when the possibility of postponing the game was first brought up. Most of the ill players have been sent home, Payne said, after the college infirmary became overcrowded.

There was no football practice yesterday at Northeast and the Indians will lay off today also in hopes those on the sick list will improve enough to be ready for practice next week. Northeast will play McNeese here Saturday night in their second Gulf States Conference game of the year.

Along with Payne, Assistant

Coach George Luffey and Trainer Lou Hartzog are ailing. All four centers on the roster are sick as well as the top three quarterbacks. Both starting halfbacks are out of action as is a starting tackle along with numerous reserve players.

U.S. Horse, Bald Eagle, Captures English Event

ASCOT HEATH, England, Oct. 11 (AP)—American-owned and bred Bald Eagle today won the six furlongs Duke of Edinburgh Stakes for 2-year-olds and immediately was being talked about as a probable favorite for next year's English Derby.

Bald Eagle, a bay colt by Nasrullah out of Siassa, started as the 6-5 favorite and won by one length in a field of eight runners.

Today's race was his first outing. But he won handily from second-place Barleycroft with Teynham half a length further away third. Barleycroft was 9-4 in the betting. Teynham was 20-1.

Bald Eagle is owned by H. F. Guggenheim of New York and was ridden by Harry Carr, who is the jockey for Queen Elizabeth. Capt. Cecil Boyd-Rochford is Bald Eagle's trainer.

Stennis Urges Unified Control In Missile Work

DEKALB, Miss., Oct. 11 (AP) — Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss) today urged unified control over the United States' missile program and greater concentration of military effort on striking power. In a statement to newspapers, Stennis said: "Our missile program has suffered and will continue to suffer as long as there is division of authority money and effort among the three armed services. Nothing short of an all out, full scale congressional investigation can meet the urgent need for the new start under unified control, so clearly demanded at this time." Stennis said he has long been convinced "that a great part of our total military effort should be concentrated on striking power, like bombers and missiles, with less emphasis on individual defense points over the country."

He said because of a lack of understanding of the missile program within Congress, he was urging the Senate Armed Service Committee to conduct an "intensive, but strictly non-partisan congressional investigation."

Mrs. Sarah Siddons, noted English actress, was 76 years old when she died in 1831.

Train Ride For Kindergarten

The kindergarten class of Our Lady of Fatima School was treated to a trip to Calhoun by train Thursday, on the Illinois Central Railroad.

All arrangements for this eventful day were made by Mrs. Larry Seidenspinner and Mrs. Floyd Southwell, kindergarten teacher. The children were taken to the station from school in cars and boarded the 9:40 a.m. train. The 26 little trippers were all aglow with excitement and questions. For a majority this was the first train ride, according to the chaperones, Mrs. Asa Ray, Mrs. Walter Williams, Mrs. Larry Seidenspinner and the teacher. The special car was a buzz of gleeful voices. There was a sigh of regret when the conductor sang out, all to soon - "next stop Calhoun." However, their joy returned when Mrs. Southwell informed them on the trip back to Monroe, by car, they would stop at a road-side park for refreshments.

The following mothers met the train at Calhoun and drove the children back to Monroe, Mrs. Purvis Wiggins; Mrs. James Balsamo, Mrs. James Plaisance, Mrs. C. J. Fontana; Mrs. Robert Edington; Mrs. F. E. Polen; Mrs. S. M. Smale and Mrs. W. J. Riley, Jr.

So ended a perfect day for the following kindergarten boys and girls, and the memory will live in their hearts as "my first train trip." ## WHY GROW OLD?

Danger Of Poor Nutrition Great If You Live Alone

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

There are several groups of women who are most likely to be poorly nourished. I think that of these perhaps the threat is greatest for the woman who lives alone. I do not think it makes much difference whether she works or not. As a matter of fact I believe that the woman who lives alone and does NOT work may be in the greatest danger.

This woman does not have the impetus which the wish to build strong bodies for children or to protect a husband's health provide. She does not have the stimulation of appreciation from others for any delightful meals she may plan and prepare.

Under these circumstances it is so easy to pick at what is in the icebox or eat out of a can. It takes real determination to obtain the variety she needs because it does not seem worthwhile to prepare a whole meal for herself.

Added to this hurdle is the fact that many women who are alone are living on pensions or the income from bonds or savings or have some sort of set income. As you all know the price of living has zoomed. Therefore a stringent cash situation may be a cause of a person being poorly nourished.

Yet the woman who lives alone can eat well and fairly inexpensively. A pound of butter and a dozen eggs last a long time when used for one. Frozen vegetables are a boon because they can be used for several meals, staying in the deep freezer between meals. You can vary your fare and not eat the same vegetable two or three days in a row. It is not too difficult or expensive if you eat alone! The psychological hazard is the main consideration. Make up your mind to take your nutrition seriously.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Vitamin Defense" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 37 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Family Ousting Cheesecake Ads

Advertisements, like suburbs, streets and school, are getting crowded.

The beautiful woman is still there, of course. Only she's not alone. She's a mother now and she's accompanied by her husband and the kids.

In short, Madison Avenue has discovered the American family.

Family in Action
Ads in newspapers, magazines, and on television, now tend to portray family groups in action, be it setting the family car filled with scolding at the neighborhood station, sipping soda from family-size bottles during a family backyard barbecue, eating cereal from family-size packages, taking pictures, talking on the telephone, or looking at stock quotations.

More cigarette ads feature the "young marrieds." So do beer ads. A fishing tackle firm hopes to encourage more family fishing trips by turning out pastel colored rods and reels for the girls.

Liquor Ad Cancelled
So widespread has the family appeal become that a liquor campaign recently broke the ground rules by showing a female in an ad. Even though she wasn't drinking the rum or touching a glass, her mere presence caused an uproar and the ad was cancelled.

Advertising men boil down the reasons for the family approach as follows: prosperity and leisure time.

Women do about three-fourths of the family spending, so broad appeals aimed at women and the thing uppermost in their minds, family, are profitable. The five-day week, the move to suburban living, informality, and television all tend to make the home more of a focal point for advertising appeals.

Prosperity Creates Markets
Prosperity, besides altering older advertising approaches, also has created new markets for such things as small boats, swimming pools, station wagons and picnic items.

The trend is more than a passing phenomenon, for the number of families living in the United States is increasing. Last year, there were nearly 43-million. By 1957, this figure will pass 54-million.

The reaching-out for family business also involves transportation. Important railroads, airlines and bus companies have introduced family rates in recent years, along with major hotels.

In religion, churches are urging families not to split up at summertime by sending the children off to camp. Take summer camp vacations together, they suggest. Sunday schools are inaugurating family courses.

Industry is in the picture too, with a recently launched "Fun with Pop" program, aimed at building a happier family life by getting fathers to spend more time with their children.

Train Ride For Kindergarten

The kindergarten class of Our Lady of Fatima School was treated to a trip to Calhoun by train, Thursday, on the Illinois Central Railroad.

All arrangements for this eventful day were made by Mrs. Larry Seidenspinner and Mrs. Floyd Southwell, kindergarten teacher. The children were taken to the station from school in cars and boarded the 9:40 a.m. train. The 26 little tripsters were all aglow with excitement and questions. For a majority this was the first train ride, according to the chaperones, Mrs. Asa Ray, Mrs. Walter Williams, Mrs. Larry Seidenspinner and the teacher. The special car was a buzz of gleeful 5 year olds. There was a sigh of regret when the conductor sang-out, all to soon - "next stop Calhoun." However, their joy returned when Mrs. Southwell informed them on the trip back to Monroe, by car, they would stop at a road-side park for refreshments.

The following mothers met the train at Calhoun and drove the children back to Monroe, Mrs. Purvis Wiggins; Mrs. James Balsamo, Mrs. James Plaisance, Mrs. C. J. Fontana; Mrs. Robert Ellington; Mrs. F. E. Polen; Mrs. S. M. Smale and Mrs. W. J. Riley, Jr.

So ended a perfect day for the following kindergarten boys and girls, and the memory will live in their hearts as "my first train trip." Those enjoying this outing were: Donnie Balsamo, Brenda Bell, Mike Breard, Margaret Charlton, Pat Ellington, Kathy Fontana, Morris Haas, Donald Houtt, Patty Joseph, Patsy Kelly, Mary Margaret Marsala, Mary Jo Massart, Larry May, Brenda Ann McGuirt, Chris Plaisance, Laura Lou Polen, Terry Ray, Joe Kelly, Relja, Bill Riley, Wayne Seidenspinner, Kathleen Smale, Bob Spatafora, Ann Staggs, Lenell Van Vekhoven, Tom Wiggins, Richard Wilds and Eugene Williams.

Special guests on the train Mrs. Roy Kelly and Ricky; Mrs. A. T. Van Vekhoven and Debbie and Rebo King.

Also on the program for the council meeting were a choral reading and a song by Mrs. R. A. Warner's third grade class.

A total of 93 council members and 5 visitors attended the meeting at which Mrs. Freddie Jones, president, presided. It was announced that the next regular meeting will be held in December at Woodlawn Elementary School.

The proportion of working women between the ages of 45 and 54 doubled in the United States between 1940 and 1956. There also were increases in the 10-year age groups preceding and following those ages, but in the 20 to 24 age group, the reverse was true.

Discouraged Mother Says At 3 Child Isn't Trained

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mothers are humiliated when their children do not develop clean toilet habits. It seems to reflect in some way on the excellence of their training procedures and they feel that other mothers condemn them.

"Discouraged" says she hates to admit it but her 3-year-old is still soiling his pants! "I began training him at two to urinate on his potty and he did very nicely. But attempts to train him further flew out of the window. At the time I didn't think too much of it nor did I make an issue of it.

"Well, I have tried everything. For the first six months I was very patient with him. Then I thought being stern would help. But neither reasoning nor threats faze him. I have tried bribing him with gift-wrapped packages which he can have when he uses the toilet. I have told him about his cowboy heroes and want him to act as they do. Nothing seems to impress him for long.

Threatened. Shot "Now I have done what I said I would never do — I have told him I would have to take him to the doctor for a shot if he didn't start using his potty. That probably seems severe but I have tried everything else, even spankings and he goes ahead, anyway. "I have even tried ignoring the matter and changing his pants without comment, but that only simplified matters for him. He is an average, good boy, minds well and is not terribly spoiled. It's embarrassing to have him play with children and then this happen. Any suggestions will be deeply appreciated."

Answer

I am sure you realize how wrong it is to give him the idea that shots are a sort of punishment. Instead they are ways to help him avoid illness or get him well when he is sick.

You must have some idea, at this age, just when it is most natural for him to have a movement. Call him in from play and put him on the toilet around that time and expect him to stay there for 10 minutes or so, trying to be successful. In his desire to get outdoors again or just because the position will be helpful he may act, and then you can show him how much nicer way this is than to soil his pants.

Don't put all the burden on him to tell you, even though by now he probably knows the "feeling" that precedes a movement. Get him into the right habit by good timing and then praise his accomplishment.

If you would like our leaflet "Toilet Training" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 65 to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Mistake Doesn't Reflect On You—Offer Friendship

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: I have been crying for two hours and can hardly see to write. Please, help me at once. I'm miserable.

My cousin who is my age (17) has got herself in trouble with a boy. I'm sure if you will use your imagination you'll know what kind of trouble I mean. My mother just told me that she's coming to stay with us until her trouble is over.

Mother says we must be kind and not criticize her in any way. Also, I must take her around and introduce her to my friends and act like nothing is wrong.

Now how in God's name can I take this girl with me under the circumstances? Of course she isn't going to date, but I'm supposed to include her in all my activities as long as she wants to go. I think my mother is being very unfair to me and I will be laughed at by everyone.—Sheila

Your mother sounds like a wonderful woman — too bad you don't take after her.

Your young cousin is in one of the worst jams imaginable. She's had plenty of heartache and is due for more. Offer her friendship and understanding. Make no apologies for her to your friends and remember that her mistake reflects in no way on you.

As time goes on she'll probably accept fewer invitations and withdraw from social activities. Don't be concerned about your friends "laughing" at you. If they have any understanding they'll have nothing but admiration for both you and your mother.

Dear Ann: My son got married three months ago and I am heart-sick because his bride is such a poor housekeeper. His shirts are grey-looking and the collars aren't nice at all. I don't think she knows about starch. When he lived at home he was so particular about everything and now he looks downright tacky.

Their apartment is filthy. She leaves rags wadded up in the corner of the kitchen sink and does not even know enough to cover left-over tuna when she puts it in the refrigerator.

She's managed to knock the handles off most the tea-cups and her wedding linens look older than mine. Honestly, Ann, it hurts my heart to see the way my son has to live. He is a wonderful boy and waited until he was 34 to LIMITED SPACE need not mean sacrificing style in dining arrangements. The long refectory table shown above is perfect for a foursome. The hostess serves coffee from the opposite side. The arrangement of birds and leaves make a pleasant contrast to the copper service pieces, the glowing silver and the braided place mats in henna, topped with creamy china edged in reseda green. The table folds back into a "bookcase" receptacle.

The sofa is maroon, a club chair is blue, and a barrel chair is upholstered in tapestry with a small floral pattern in rose, blue, yellow and brown on a beige background. What colors would you suggest for the walls, wall-to-wall carpeting and draperies? Also, I am planning to buy new furniture for the adjoining dining room and would like to get it in the French Provincial style in a fruitwood finish. Would this be all right with the traditional furniture in the living room?

A.—Pink would be a good color for the walls of your living room, beige for the wall-to-wall carpeting and a floral pattern on an antique white background for the draperies. Instead of getting the French Provincial furniture in the fruitwood finish, why not get it in the more formal antique white finish to blend with the traditional pieces in the living room?
Q.—I would like some help in decorating our bathroom which is average size. The wall tile is peach with a brown border, the floor tile is peach and brown squares and the fixtures are white with chrome trim. What colors would you suggest for the upper walls and ceiling, shower curtain, window curtains and rug?

A.—For the upper walls and ceiling of your bathroom I suggest aqua; for the shower curtain, copper; for the window curtains, peach; for the rug turquoise.

Q.—We are planning to paint three walls of our living room green and the fourth wall gold. Our problem is which wall to paint the gold color. Would it look best on the stair wall or on the wall opposite the picture window which has two archways, one leading to the kitchen and the other to a hall.
A.—I think that the gold color would be best on the stair wall in your living room.

Q.—My husband and I have just bought Italian Provincial bedroom furniture for our first home. It is in a light wood finish with some carving but looks quite simple. Could you tell us what type of accessories such as draperies and lamps to get for the room?
A.—Draperies in a toile, floral pattern or a medallion design would be suitable with the Italian Provincial furniture in your bedroom. As for lamps, there is a choice of toile, alabaster, Bristol glass, ceramic figurines, fruitwood or walnut.

Q.—I would like some advice on colors for wall-to-wall carpeting, a sofa and an easy chair for my living room. One wall is charcoal and the other three are gold. The draperies are two-tone gray with splashes of red, two occasional chairs are gold and the lamps are black.
A.—Wall-to-wall carpeting in a black and white tweed would be nice for your living room. You could get the sofa upholstered in red and the easy chair in light green.

Brando Wed To Indian Actress

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 11 (AP)—Actor Marlon Brando today married Anna Kashfi, 23-year-old Indian actress.

It was the first marriage for each and one that took Hollywood by surprise.

It was well-known, however, that Brando and the beautiful actress from Darjeeling, India, had been seeing much of each other in recent weeks.

The ceremony took place late today at the home of Brando's maternal aunt, Mrs. Betty Lindemeyer, of suburban Eagle Rock.

Only members of the immediate family attended the brief, simple ceremony performed by the Rev. J. Walter Fiscus, pastor of the non-denominational Little Brown Church of the San Fernando Valley.

The bride wore a pale green sari, traditional dress of her native India, with a gold-trimmed white brocade blouse. She had on red shoes, also traditional.

Once Engaged

Brando, 33, at one time was engaged to Josianne Mariani, daughter of a French fisherman. No announcement ever was made that the engagement had been broken, but Brando had not been seeing Miss Mariani for some time.

Brando was dressed in a dark suit and dark tie. His hair was blond, recently dyed for his role of a Nazi soldier in the motion picture "The Young Lions."

His wife has been in several American pictures, notably "Battle Hymn" with Rock Hudson.

A year ago she was cast for an important role in "Don't Go Near the Water," but was taken critically ill with tuberculosis and spent long months in the City of Hope Medical Center in suburban Duarte. She has fully recovered.

The couple left by car to honeymoon at an unannounced location. They obtained a marriage license in Riverside, Calif., earlier this week.

Daughter Of Iranian Shah Weds Engineer

TEHRAN, Iran, Oct. 11 (AP)—Princess Shahnaz Pahlavi, 17-year-old only daughter of the Shah, married agricultural engineer Ardeshir Zahedi, 25, in a temple ceremony here today.

The ceremony, in the mirror hall of the green and yellow marble palace here, ran counter to Iran's age-old tradition which demands seven days and nights of feasting. Guests quietly dispersed after the wedding to change for a private dinner party given by the Shah for a mere 150 guests. The Shah said this deliberately, to the announcement that it was not to be the king of a poor and hungry people.

It was the first time in history that a Shah's daughter had married a noncourtier.

She was accompanied to the ceremony by Queen Mother Tahmasp, now nearly 70, who represented Shahzadeh's mother ex-Queen Farah, a sister of ex-king Karim of Egypt, who was not present to see her daughter married. After the ceremony the bride paused and the Shah and his present queen, Soraya, kissed her.

Immediately after the ceremony the groom's father, ex-Premier Gen. "Azollah" Zahedi, presented the couple the deeds of his newly toght villa in Montreux, Switzerland. He also gave them a deed for $250,000 worth of land southwest of Tehran.

Trenton Baptist Pass Resolution On Commission

A resolution requesting the Southern Baptist Convention to drop the Christian Life Commission as an agency of the convention was passed here last night by the Trenton Baptist Association.

Reason for the move was stated in the resolution as because the Christian Life Commission gave "aid, encouragement and sympathy to the cause of integration."

The resolution said the Trenton Baptist Association, which is comprised of 3 churches in Ouachita parish, opposed integration in the churches and schools.

The Christian Life Commission is an agency of the Southern Baptist Convention. The resolution said the commission went "on record in a national publication with utterances leading aid, comfort and encouragement to the cause of integration in our churches and schools."

Two Sisters See Annette Dionne Wed Canadian

MONTREAL, Oct. 11 (AP)—The first of the famous Dionne quintuplets to become a bride was married today at a simple Roman Catholic ceremony. Annette, 23, became the wife of Germain Allard, 24, an agent for a Montreal finance company.

Two of the four surviving quintuplets, Cecile and Marie, were seated among the front pews of the magnificent Notre Dame de la Salette in downtown Montreal. The fourth, Yvonne, was in a hospital with flu. The fifth, Emilie, died in 1954.

Only 16 relatives and friends attended the wedding. The doors of the church were locked before the ceremony. About 100 persons pressed against the stained-glass doors, trying to get a glimpse of the couple.

Annette wore a brown suit, a beige feather hat with matching accessories. She carried a bouquet of red roses. The bridegroom's suit was of the same brown cloth as Annette's suit.

Olivia Dionne, who drove here with his wife from North Bay, Ont., gave his daughter in marriage. Pierre Allard, father of the groom, was best man.

Another quint, Cecile, will be married Nov. 23 to Philippe Langlois, 26, a Canadian Broadcasting Co. technician.

Antenuptial Contracts Held Void In Georgia

ATLANTA, Oct. 11 (AP)—In its first ruling on the question, the Georgia Supreme Court said today that an "antenuptial contract" to rear children as Catholics may be disregarded by courts in child custody cases.

The decision affirmed the Glynn superior court in awarding Mrs. Helen B. Stanton a divorce from Frederick B. Stanton of Riverside, Conn., and custody of their three children.

Mrs. Stanton, a Protestant, in her petition for divorce, alleged cruel treatment in her husband's persistent demands that she become a Catholic.

An "antenuptial" document in which she agreed to bring up their children in the Catholic faith was cited in the trial and on appeal.

The Supreme Court said that in Georgia welfare of the children is the primary and controlling question. "Thus," the opinion added, "in a contest between parents as to custody, their wishes are subordinated to this paramount issue."

Courts may take into consideration the faith of the parents and religious atmosphere in determining the best interest of the child, the Supreme Court said, but:

"Parents cannot by contract control the discretion and duty of the court in determining custody, and the court may disregard the contract and award the children to either parent or to a third party if the best interests of the children require it."

Official Urges Help To Prevent Bus Accidents

City officials yesterday expressed deep concern over a "disturbing number" of reports of potential accidents involving children transported to school on city buses.

Commissioner of Finance and Utilities H. W. McSherry said his office had received several such reports and pointed out that, while there is no ordinance requiring a motorist to stop behind the city buses, the situation requires extreme caution of motorists.

McSherry emphasized that between 1,500 and 2,000 school children ride city buses to school in every section of the city, and that bus drivers have been instructed to watch the children closely.

Citing 7:30 to 8:15 a.m. and 2:30 to 3 p.m. as the most critical periods, McSherry requested the cooperation of motorists, parents, and children to prevent any child's being struck by a vehicle—a tragedy which had happened here last year.

A 43-year-old Monroe woman suffered a lacerated scalp when hit by a truck at Plum and Jackson Streets late yesterday. The driver of the truck was charged with reckless driving.

Treated and released from the charity hospital was Mrs. Doris R. Thomsen, 300 Plum.

Elbert Brown, 33, Negro of 2905 Renwick, posted a $100 bond with city police after he was charged with reckless driving.

Officials reported that Mrs. Thomsen was crossing the intersection on a correct traffic signal, and that the truck was turning left off Plum Street onto Jackson when the accident occurred.

The ceremony took place late today at the home of Brando's maternal aunt, Mrs. Bette Lindemeyer, of suburban Eagle Rock. Only members of the immediate family attended the brief, simple rite performed by the Rev. J. Walter Fiscus, pastor of the non-denominational Little Brown Church of the San Fernando Valley.

The bride wore a pale green gown, traditional dress of her native India, with a gold-fringed white brocade blouse. She had on red shoes, also traditional.

Trenton Baptist Pass Resolution On Commission

A resolution requesting the Southern Baptist Convention to drop the Christian Life Commission as an agency of the convention was passed here last night by the Trenton Baptist Association.

Reason for the move was stated in the resolution as because the Christian Life Commission gave "aid, encouragement and sympathy to the cause of integration." The resolution said the Trenton Baptist Association, which is comprised of 3 churches in Ouachita parish, opposed integration in the churches and schools.

The Christian Life Commission is an agency of the Southern Baptist Convention. The resolution said the commission went "on record in a national publication with utterances lending aid, comfort and encouragement to the cause of integration in our churches and schools."

Daughter Of Iranian Shah Weds Engineer

TEHRAN, Iran, Oct. 11 (AP)—Princess Shahnaz Pahlavi, 17-year-old only daughter of the Shah, married agricultural engineer Ardeshir Zahedi, 25, in a temple ceremony here today.

The ceremony, in the mirror hall of the green and yellow marble palace here, ran counter to Iran's age-old tradition which demands seven days and nights of feasting. Guests quietly dispersed after the wedding to change for a private dinner party given by the Shah for a mere 150 guests. The Shah did this deliberately, with the announcement that it was not prideful to be the king of a poor and hungry people.

It was the first time in history that a Shah's daughter had married a noncourtier.

She was accompanied to the ceremony by Queen Mother Tahmas, now nearly 70, who represented Shahnaz's mother ex-Queen Farah, a sister of ex-king Farouk of Egypt, who was not present to see her daughter married and the ceremony the bride paused and the Shah and his present queen, Soraya, kissed her.

Two Sisters See Annette Dionne Wed Canadian

MONTREAL, Oct. 11 (AP)—The first of the famous Dionne quintuplets to become a bride was married today at a simple Roman Catholic ceremony. Annette, 23, became the wife of Germain Allard, 24, an agent for a Montreal finance company.

Two of the four surviving quintuplets, Cecile and Marie, were seated among the front pews of the magnificent Notre Dame de la Salette in downtown Montreal. The fourth, Yvonne, was in a hospital with flu. The fifth, Emilie, died in 1954.

Only 16 relatives and friends attended the wedding. The doors of the church were locked before the ceremony by about 100 persons pressed against the stained-glass doors, trying to get a glimpse of the couple.

Annette wore a brown suit, a beige feather hat with matching accessories. She carried a bouquet of red roses. The bridegroom's suit was of the same brown cloth as Annette's suit.

Olivia Dionne, who drove here with her wife from North Bay, Ont., gave her daughter in marriage. Pierre Allard, father of the groom, was best man.

Another quint, Cecile, will be married Nov. 23 to Philippe Langlois, 26, a Canadian Broadcasting Co. technician.

Woman Struck By Truck Here

A 43-year-old Monroe woman suffered a lacerated scalp when hit by a truck at Plum and Jackson Streets late yesterday. The driver of the truck was charged with reckless driving.

Treated and released from the charity hospital was Mrs. Doris R. Thomsen, 300 Plum.

Elbert Brown, 33, Negro of 2905 Renwick, posted a $100 bond with city police after he was charged with reckless driving.

Officials reported that Mrs. Thomsen was crossing the intersection on a correct traffic signal, and that the truck was turning left off Plum Street onto Jackson when the accident occurred.

School Fire Safety Pan Is Followed

Under the direct supervision of the bureau of fire prevention, the Monroe fire department is directly responsible for the safety of students of the 13 municipal, six parish and three parochial schools in the city. The phase of the work requires considerable time and effort, but fortunately has not been needed to save the school children, officials said yesterday in connection with observance here of Fire Prevention Week.

Each month during the school term the students are given training and experience in fire drills by C. W. Fisher, deputy fire marshal, and P. V. Cutler. Advance information on the date and time for the drill is not known by the school.

Inspections

At the beginning of each school term, members of the bureau make complete inspections of the buildings. This year there were 2 schools inspected. Fisher commended the superintendents of schools, principals and teachers for the cooperation in this phase of the work.

During the month of September, there were 22 schools given fire drills with a total membership of approximately 12,690. Average time for the pupils to clear the buildings for the drills was one minute and three seconds.

In addition to these drills, the school holds at least one drill on its own. This information is then supplied to the bureau.

Colorful Holiday Lighting Fare Planned By WM

West Monroe's downtown Christmas lighting program this year will be more colorful than ever, according to officials, with 25 new lights being added to the decorations.

K. D. Norris, chairman of the retail merchants' group, said additional funds will be needed for the purchase of the new lights, and that solicitors will begin calling on downtown West Monroe merchants Monday in an effort to raise the money.

A program Saturday, Dec. 7, will mark the start of the Christmas season with a parade, and a Santa Claus who will distribute gifts to the children. At that time the lights will be turned on, Norris said.

In reporting yesterday on a press conference statement of U. S. Rep. Otto E. Passman, it was inadvertently stated that "the American public debt exceeds that of all the other 86 nations of the world by $366 billion." The correct figure for this is, instead, $63 billion. The U. S. public debt is $273 billion, as compared to the combined public debt for all the other 86 nations of $210-billion.

FARM WAGES RISE

WASHINGTON (UP)—Wages of farm laborers rose to an average of 75.7 cents an hour Oct. 1, the Agriculture Department reported Thursday. It was a record high for the date and 2.1 cents above the average for Oct. 1, 1936. A department farm labor report indicated wages of hired farm hands since the 1910-14 period have risen more than twice as much as the prices farmers received for crops and livestock.

Street Sign Project Well Underway

A project to erect signposts at every street intersection in Monroe is well underway, and posts have been set on every street except in the downtown section, it was announced yesterday.

The work is being done by the maintenance section of the Police Department and Chief James C. Kelly Jr., said. Yesterday that 1,050 have been set with only about 100 remaining to be erected.

Kelly said signs will be placed on the posts soon. The work began about three weeks ago, at which time Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard and Kelly predicted the entire project could be completed within 45 days.

Kelly explained yesterday that concrete in the downtown section will have to be broken before setting posts and the breaking will be done at night. This work was expected to begin last night.

The city originally planned for 1,530 posts, but Kelly pointed out that some streets have not yet been completed and that about 1,100 posts should be sufficient at the present time. Markers for any new streets will be erected as the streets are completed.

2 Youths Admit To Three More Burglary Charges

According to Chief Kelly, the youths admitted taking about $8 from Kid's Garage, 1400 DeSiard, on Sept. 29, and about $10 from the Monroe Bowling Center, Sept. 15. The two boys also acknowledged entering the Pepsi Cola Bottling Company and taking a set of keys on Sept. 14.

The case is being held open pending juvenile court action.

AT LITTLE ROCK

Preacher Prays For Segregation

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 11 (AP)—A segregationist Baptist pastor prayed tonight for the removal of federal troops from Little Rock of federal troops who he said are "surrounding one of our city schools, without authority, and endangering the lives of our citizens."

The Rev. M. L. Moser Jr., made the statement in a prayer prepared for a meeting to which persons of all faiths were invited. He is missionary pastor of the Central Baptist church, the site of the meeting.

The Rev. Mr. Moser did not mention nine Negro students who are attending Central High School in his prepared text. But he and 23 other Baptist ministers said, in issuing a call for the prayer meeting, that the only solution to the city's racial crisis "is for the nine Negro children to return to Horace Mann High School where they legally and morally belong."

Horace Mann is a Negro high school. They now are going to Central High classes under the protection of federal troops ordered into Little Rock by President Eisenhower.

Another series of prayer meetings will be held in some 85 city churches of all faiths tomorrow morning. Sponsors say these services are designed only to seek divine guidance for a solution of the situation.

The Rev. M. L. Moser Sr., said in remarks prepared for tonight's meeting that the services tomorrow were called by a group of Jewish, Catholic and Protestant churchmen.

The younger Rev. Moser told newsmen the Baptist ministers sponsoring tonight's meeting "believe that the Bible's teaches segregation" of the races. The pastors are affiliated with various branches of the Baptist church.

The Rev. Mr. Moser Jr. mentioned "our colored brethren of this city and of the South."

"Those who are Christians among them are our brothers and sisters in the Lord," he said, "and they too are facing serious difficulties and are in need of Thy help. We know that this trouble is not of their making and we do pray that they might be led even as we need to be led by Thy Holy Spirit."

"This trouble has been had for all the people of our city and we pray... that peace might soon descend upon our city."

'SPACE PLATFORM'

Charges Rosenbergs Gave Reds Secrets Of Satellite

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—was not explained. Some American information on earth satellite projects may have been slipped to the Russians years ago by atom spy Julius Rosenberg.

David Greenglass, the chief government witness against Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, testified in this connection at their trial in New York March 9, 1951.

Greenglass swore that Rosenberg had told him that he—Rosenberg—had obtained information on what he called a sky platform project from "one of the boys." The source was not otherwise identified.

Greenglass said Rosenberg explained that the project involved suspension of a large device in space, where the gravity pull is small. He further quoted Rosenberg as saying that the platform, as a satellite, would hover over the earth. The purpose, or how far advanced the project ever got, was not explained.

Three Hurt, Auto Burns In Accident

One car rammed another and burned, injuring three persons six miles south of Monroe on U.S. 165 about 4:15 p.m. yesterday. Two persons involved escaped unhurt. The accident occurred on a smoke shrouded road, police said.

Admitted to St. Francis Hospital was Mrs. Don Lanier, 28, with severe facial cuts, and her two daughters, Kathy, 7, and Sharon, 10. Sharon was released from the hospital, but Kathy, who suffered a cut chin, was being held for observation.

Don Lanier, 28, of 4301 S. Grand said he was going south on U.S. 165, when smoke from a roadside grass fire impaired his vision. Lanier said he slowed his vehicle before it rammed another hidden in the dense smoke.

According to Lanier, the second vehicle was driven by an unidentified woman from West Virginia, and was traveling very slow because of the smoke. The woman was reportedly alone.

Engine 111 of the Monroe Fire Department was dispatched to the scene and extinguished the flaming Lanier auto, which was considered a total loss.

State Police investigated the accident, but complete reports were not available late last night.

BEFORE HEARINGS

Bell Petitions For Emergency Rate Hike Of $7 Million For Louisiana

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 11 (AP)—Southern Bell Telephone Company today sought an emergency seven million dollar rate hike in advance of hearings on whether it is needed. The company agreed to post bond for refunds if the higher rates are denied.

Chairman Nat R. Knight of the Louisiana Public Service Commission said a ruling would be made on the petition after a business session tomorrow.

After consulting with Southern Bell officials, Knight said hearings on the complaint low rates are crippling expansion in Louisiana probably will be held in late November. The date will be set after consultation with Southern Bell and utilities experts the commission plans to call as witnesses.

A 1956 commission order forced the company to refund $3,940,000 to Louisiana customers due to a 20 per cent cut in long distance rates within the state and reduction of 10-cent pay station calls to five cents.

In conjunction with this reduction, the commission held a hearing on a controversy involving refunds to independent telephone companies.

The commission contends the order means Southern Bell also should make refunds on long distance calls within the state by customers of independents using Southern Bell toll lines, so the independent customers could benefit by the reduction.

The commission took under advisement a Southern Bell motion they stipulate facts in the disagreement. Southern Bell argues customers of the independents are not customers of Southern Bell.

In other hearings involving Southern Bell, the commission: 1. Took under advisement a protest the company was slow in providing service for the new Broadmoor development in Baton Rouge. A Southern Bell engineer testified because of limited funds for expansion residential service must await completion of top priority projects.

2. Took under advisement a protest by St. Mary Parish residents about poor telephone service in the Morgan City area, mainly on incoming long distance calls.

'Low Earnings' The company replied work already completed or in progress would clear up much of the trouble, but further expansion was delayed "because low earnings will not justify the expenditure of limited capital funds which will be required to meet the top priority telephone needs throughout the state."

Rep. Samuel Cashio, Iberville Parish, a top Gov. Earl Long leader, speaking in on the hearing as an observer. He represents the 21 independent telephone firms with some 35,000 customers.

On the refund question, Southern Bell attorney Victor Sachse argued: "We have reciprocal agreements with connecting companies. We use their facilities. They use ours. We make no distinction between interstate and intrastate phone calls with them. There is no separation of such calls. None of their customers are our customers. We cannot refund what we have not received. The independents collect their own revenues. We cannot refund to their customers."

Sachse also contended refunds to independents would increase the size of the refund originally ordered by the commission.

In making the request for immediate granting of the rate hike, attorney Rayburn Moore said the commission's failure to act on the Southern Bell Aug. 14 application for the emergency increase had serious effects.

He said earnings for the first six months of the year, under reduced rates, were less than the cost of borrowed money, the cheapest form of new capital available to the company.

He claimed that while the commission previously had ordered a reduction of $3,940,000 in annual revenues, the effect of the rate cut upheld by the State Supreme Court earlier this year was to chop revenues by $3,303,000.

Rates 'Needed' Higher rates should be granted immediately, Monroe said, "if Louisiana is not to be handicapped in telephone progress to an extent that might very possibly take years to overcome."

The Bell System has rate increase requests pending in 23 states.

In testifying against charges of poor service, Louisiana commercial engineer Homer P. Carter echoed Monroe's comments about low earnings and the high cost of money slowing expansion.

Farrier-Muth P. Carter Co. complained it can't sell lots in the Broadmoor terrace subdivision because of the telephone company's slowness.

Among a number of witnesses testifying from St. Mary Parish, boatbuilder E. W. Dupont of Morgan City said it often took two to three days to clear a long distance call from Houston, Tex., to Morgan City and this not only hampered his business but also cost him customers.

Construction next year, he said, will be limited to funds produced by the company's depreciation accruals, plus salvaged materials, totaling $14,224,000.

Carter said a minimum of $10,571,000 would be required in 1958 just to maintain the system and serve present customers. He added that there were no untitled orders in Broadmoor terrace.

Carter agreed more service was badly needed in St. Mary Parish and listed work recently completed in the area, but again cited low earnings as a drag to needed expansion.

Joseph Cefalu of Morgan City, president of the St. Mary Parish police jury, said better telephone service was essential to the growth of the area.

"They talk about high money," he said, "but they overlook the fact they have a moral obligation for service to the public."

Carter testified that due to limit expansion funds priority had been given to:

1. Relocation of telephone facilities to meet military requirements on air bases at Alexandria, Lake Charles and New Iberia.
2. Relocation of facilities to clear highways, expressways and underpass construction in the Baton Rouge, Lake Charles, Monroe and New Orleans areas.

Pinay Attempts To Get Cabinet; Say Chance Dim

PARIS, Oct. 11 (AP)—Ex-Premier Antoine Pinay, a small-town tanner with a record for some success with economics when he was premier in 1952, agreed tonight to try forming a French Cabinet. His chances were considered dim.

Pinay conferred twice with President Rene Coty.

A rightist, he insisted that any prospective premier must be guaranteed at least a year of political peace to get France out of its governmental crisis.

The latest crisis began 11 days ago when Parliament voted no confidence in Premier Maurice Bourgès-Maunoury's program for some honorable in rebellious Algeria.

Bourgès-Maunoury is a Radical Socialist—conservative—party man. Coty first called Socialist ex-Premier Guy Mollet to try.

Mollet, who had a post-war premiership record tenure of 16 months, gave up last Sunday. Coty then called in ex-Premier Rene Pleven, Democratic-Socialist. Pleven failed to get support from the Bourgès-Maunoury group for a wide coalition government and gave up two days ago.

AT LITTLE ROCK

Preacher Prays For Segregation

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 11 (AP)—A segregationist Baptist pastor prayed tonight for the removal from Little Rock of federal troops who he said are "surrounding one of our city schools, without authority, and endangering the lives of our citizens."

The Rev. M. L. Moser Jr., made the statement in a prayer prepared for a meeting to which persons of all faiths were invited. He is missionary pastor of the Central Baptist church, the site of the meeting.

The Rev. Mr. Moser did not mention nine Negro students who are attending Central High School in his prepared text. But he and 23 other Baptist ministers said, in issuing a call for the prayer meeting, that the only solution to the city's racial crisis "is for the nine Negro children to return to Horace Mann High School where they legally and morally belong."

Horace Mann is a Negro high school. They now are going to Central High classes under the protection of federal troops ordered into Little Rock by President Eisenhower.

Another series of prayer meetings will be held in some 85 city churches of all faiths tomorrow morning. Sponsors say these services are designed only to seek divine guidance for a solution of the situation.

The Rev. M. L. Moser Sr., said in remarks prepared for tonight's meeting that the services tomorrow were called by a group of Jewish, Catholic and Protestant churchmen.

The younger Rev. Moser told newsmen the Baptist ministers sponsoring tonight's meeting "believe that the Bible's teaches segregation" of the races. The pastors are affiliated with various branches of the Baptist church.

The Rev. Mr. Moser Jr. mentioned "our colored brethren of this city and of the South."

"Those who are Christians among them are our brothers and sisters in the Lord," he said, "and they too are facing serious difficulties and are in need of Thy help. We know that this trouble is not of their making and we do pray that they might be led even as we need to be led by Thy Holy Spirit."

"This trouble has been bad for all the people of our city and we pray . . . that peace might soon descend upon our city."

'SPACE PLATFORM'

Charges Rosenbergs Gave Reds Secrets Of Satellite

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—Some American information on earth satellite projects may have been slipped to the Russians years ago by atom spy Julius Rosenberg.

David Greenglass, the chief government witness against Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, testified in this connection at their trial in New York March 9, 1951.

Greenglass swore that Rosenberg had told him that he—Rosenberg—had obtained information on what he called a sky platform project from "one of the boys."

The source was not otherwise identified.

Greenglass said Rosenberg explained that the project involved suspension of a large device in space, where the gravity pull is small. He further quoted Rosenberg as saying that the platform, as a satellite, would hover over the earth. The purpose, or how far advanced the project ever got, was not explained.

Greenglass was questioned in the trial by Roy M. Cohn, then an assistant U.S. attorney and later to become counsel for the Senate Investigations committee under the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.).

The Rosenbergs, Greenglass and

Three Hurt, Auto Burns In Accident

One car rammed another and burned, injuring three persons six miles south of Monroe on U.S. 165 about 4:15 p.m. yesterday. Two persons involved escaped unharmed. The accident occurred on a smoke shrouded road, police said.

Admitted to St. Francis Hospital was Mrs. Don Lanier, 28, with severe facial cuts, and her two daughters, Kathy, 2, and Sharon, 10. Sharon was released from the hospital, but Kathy, who suffered a cut chin, was being held for observation.

Don Lanier, 28, of 4301 S. Grand said he was going south on U.S. 165, when smoke from a roadside grass fire impaired his vision. Lanier said he slowed his vehicle before it rammed another hidden in the dense smoke.

Traveling Slow

According to Lanier, the second vehicle was driven by an unidentified woman from West Virginia, and was traveling very slow because of the smoke. The woman was reportedly alone.

Engine 111 of the Monroe Fire Department was dispatched to the scene and extinguished the flaming Lanier auto, which was considered a total loss.

State Police investigated the accident, but complete reports were not available late last night.

Morton Sobell were convicted of conspiring to give atomic secrets to Russia.

The Rosenbergs were executed in 1953. Sobell who was sentenced to 30 years and Greenglass, who was Mrs. Rosenberg's brother and testified against them, was given 15 years. Greenglass pleaded guilty.

Greenglass is serving his time at the Lewisburg, Pa., Penitentiary.

Greenglass was a former Army sergeant who worked as a machinist at the Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Los Alamos, N.M., atomic installations. He testified that the Rosenbergs induced him to turn over atomic secrets for transit to Russia from late 1944 until early in 1946.

Pinay Attempts To Get Cabinet; Say Chance Dim

PARIS, Oct. 11 (AP)—Ex-Premier Antoine Pinay, a small-town tanner with a record for some success with economics when he was premier in 1952, agreed tonight to try forming a French Cabinet. His chances were considered dim.

Pinay conferred twice with President Rene Coty.

A rightist, he insisted that any prospective premier must be guaranteed at least a year of political peace to get France out of its governmental crisis.

The latest crisis began 11 days ago when Parliament voted no confidence in Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunory's program for some homerule in rebellious Algeria.

Bourges-Maunory is a Radical Socialist — conservative — party man. Coty first called Socialist ex-Premier Guy Mollet to try. Mollet, who had a postwar premiership record tenure of 16 months, gave up last Sunday. Coty then called in ex-Premier Rene Pleven, Democratic-Socialist. Pleven failed to get support from the Bourges-Maunory group for a wide coalition government and gave up two days ago.

Bell Petitions For Emergency Rate Hike Of $7 Million For Louisiana

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 11 (AP)—Southern Bell Telephone Company today sought an emergency seven million dollar rate hike in advance of hearings on whether it is needed. The company agreed to post bond for refunds if the higher rates are denied.

Chairman Nat B. Knight of the Louisiana Public Service Commission said a ruling would be made on the petition after a business session tomorrow.

After consulting with Southern Bell officials, Knight said hearings on the complaint low rates are crippling expansion in Louisiana probably will be held in late November. The date will be set after consultation with Southern Bell and utilities experts the commission plans to call as witnesses.

A 1956 commission order forced the company to refund $3,940,000 to Louisiana customers due to a 20 per cent cut in long distance rates within the state and reduction of 10-cent pay station calls to five cents.

In conjunction with this reduction, the commission held a hearing on a controversy involving refunds to independent telephone companies.

The commission contends the order means Southern Bell also should make refunds on long distance calls within the state by customers of independents using Southern Bell toll lines, so the independent customers could benefit by the reduction.

The commission took under advisement a Southern Bell motion they stipulate facts in the disagreement. Southern Bell argues customers of the independents are not customers of Southern Bell.

In other hearings involving Southern Bell, the commission:

1. Took under advisement a protest the company was slow in providing service for the new Broadmoor development in Baton Rouge. A Southern Bell engineer testified because of limited funds
2. Took under advisement a protest by St. Mary Parish residents about poor telephone service in the Morgan City area, mainly on incoming long distance calls.
3. 'Low Earnings'

The company replied work already completed or in progress would clear up much of the trouble, but further expansion was delayed "because low earnings would not justify the expenditure of limited capital funds which will be required to meet the top priority telephone needs throughout the state."

Rep. Samuel Cashio, Iberville Parish, a top Gov. Earl Long leader, sat in on the hearing as an observer. He represents the 24 independent telephone firms with some 35,000 customers.

On the refund question, Southern Bell attorney Victor Sachse argued:

"We have reciprocal agreements with connecting companies. We use their facilities. They use ours. We make no distinction between interstate and intrastate phone calls with them. There is no separation of such calls. None of our customers are our customers. We cannot refund what we have not received. The independents collect their own revenues. We cannot refund to their customers."

Sachse also contended refunds to independents would increase the size of the refund originally ordered by the commission.

In making the request for immediate granting of the rate hike, attorney Rayburn Moore said the commission's failure to act on the Southern Bell Aug. 14 application for the emergency increase had serious effects.

He said earnings for the first six months of the year, under reduced rates, were less than the cost of borrowed money, the cheapest form of new capital available to

Public Is Warned Against Dangers Of Grass Fires

Monroe residents were warned yesterday against fires during the coming "grass-fire" season of autumn, by the Bureau of Fire Prevention.

Capt. C. W. Flacy of the Monroe Fire Department urged residents not to burn any trash or rubbish—if possible—on their premises during the dry grass season.

"Grass fires are most of the time due to carelessness by the homeowner who has trash cans too near grass fields or patches," Flacy said.

Flacy pointed out that from 1933 to 1956, a total of 3,161 grass fires occurred in the city with some causing severe property damages.

"A great many of these calls are needless, as it costs the taxpayer money whenever the fire department has to send out equipment, also endangering the lives of the firemen and the citizens," he said.

Flacy urged homeowners to abide by the provisions of the Fire Prevention Code of the City of Monroe, which are as follows:

1. No persons shall kindle or maintain any bonfire or rubbish fire or authorize any such fire to be kindled or maintained on or in any public street, alley, road or public ground without a permit or other property authorization.
2. No person shall kindle or

State's Aging Agency Sponsors '58 Conference

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 1 (UP) — The Louisiana Commission on the Aging today pledged full cooperation in sponsoring a New Orleans conference next March on housing and employment of old folks.

While the date wasn't set, the commission agreed with plans presented by representatives of the New Orleans Council of Social Agencies.

J. W. Bateman, Baton Rouge, commission executive secretary, said his group agreed to join in the conference to examine housing and jobs problems for older persons in the metropolitan area.

The commission heard a report by Atty. John Edwards of the Opelousas housing authority, who said his group is ready to start a survey of prospective residents for a proposed housing development for the aged, both white and Negro.

The project would be sponsored by the Opelousas housing authority, providing low-rent housing for the aged based upon need.

Bateman told the commission a conference on problems of the aged will be held at Louisiana State University next May.

Appeal Judge Albert Tate Jr., Ville Platte, was elected commission chairman to succeed A. A. Fredericks, Natchitoches, whose term expired. Mrs. Frank Odom of Baton Rouge was named vice chairman, succeeding Tate.
